FLOOD RECEDES AND BELLEVUE CLEARS DEBRIS

2,000 Acre Lake Backed Up Against Rail Embankment Still Menaces Town.

Mayor Consults Health Authorities To Avert Outbreak of Disease.

By The Associated Press

BELLEVUE, O., June 28—Flood waters which for a time threatened to inundate virtually this entire town of 4,000 continued to recede today as thousand-horsepower streams from pumps here and there bored and resolutely started cleaning up affected areas today.

Submerging the town was a lake covering some 2,000 acres which backed up behind a 30-foot Baltimore & Ohio railroad embankment put up by national guardsmen patrolling the tracks. said the water level was falling slowly and the danger of another way was diminishing.

Mayor R. E. Wheeledagel, who had declared a state of emergency in order to be prepared to confer with a state sanitation engineer today to prevent an outbreak of disease in the wake of the flood and the local health board was scheduled to meet for a survey of the situation.

300 Homes Flooded

Approximately 300 homes were flooded and damage was estimated unofficially at $100,000. Officials said that at least 1,000 homes would have been flooded had the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad embankment given way.

The water reached to within a foot of the top of the embankment at its highest level. A six-inch drop was reported last night and the recession continued today.

Emerson Zippernick, 20, was burned and Charles Davis, W. & L. E. railroad employe seriously burned in a gasoline explosion during the flood.

One house was destroyed by fire and several minor blazes broke out during the flood but they were extinguished with little damage. Floating oil and gasoline caused grave concern to fire officials for a time.

Although only about half of the town was under water which reached a depth of four feet in places, practically every cellar in the community was flooded, officials reported.

Rains Swell Streams

Heavy rains caused the underground streams over which Bellevue is situated to flood and disgorge their waters on the surface, often in geysers 15 to 20 feet high.

Wilber Stout of Columbus, state geologist, said the streams were formed by water flowing through limestone formations in the region. Those flowing underneath Bellevue are believed to empty, he said, into the famous "blue hole" at Castalia, west of Sandusky, Ohio's largest spring.

The "blue hole," Stout said, was named for its deep blue color which comes from a small plant known as algae. It is about 100 feet in diameter and 7,000,000 gallons of water are said to flow from it hourly. From Castalia, the water flows on the surface to Lake Erie. No surface streams normally flow through Bellevue and many residents use the underground rivers for sewers.

AREA SCOUT TROOP LEAVES FOR CAPITAL

Thirty-Five from Four Counties Entrain at Bucyrus for Jamboree Trip.

Thirty-five Boy Scouts from the four counties making up the Harding area were to leave Bucyrus this afternoon at 3:42 p. m. on a Pennsylvania railroad train bound for Washington, D. C., where they will attend the national jamboree to continue through July 9.

The Harding area troop was to go from Bucyrus to Mansfield where a special train was to be made up, bound for Washington.

Last-minute developments increased the Harding Area troop's maximum from 33 to 35 boys. This made it possible for Jack Lewis and Grant Mouser III, who thought they would have to go as part of a troop from another area, to plan their jamboree outing with the Harding troop.

The boys were to be taken to Bucyrus in individual automobiles, mostly by parents.

The boys are due in Washington at 6:25 a. m. Tuesday for the biggest show in scouting history.

COLLEGE GOLFERS LAUNCH TOURNEY

NOT WORRIED ABOUT ANYTHING,' IRWIN SAYS

These Associated Press photos show Robert Irwin, 20-year-old sculptor, in two moods, following his surrender in Chicago on the charge of having murdered Veronica Gedeon, 20-year-old artist's model, her mother and a lodger at the Gedeon home last Easter Sunday. In the top photo Irwin is pictured with detectives. Below, in a photo taken at the Chicago police station, he is shown in a more cheerful attitude. Asked if he expected to be sentenced to the electric chair he said, "I'm not concerned about that. I'm not worried about anything."

NAZIS DEMAND RAW MATERIAL

Goering and Schacht Call for Bigger Trade and Return of Colonies.

HITLER LEADS APPLAUSE

Renewed Plea for Self-Sufficiency 18 Years to the Day After Versailles Treaty.

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, June 28—Adolf Hitler applauded today while Nazi Germany, through her highest apostles of economics, made known to the International Chamber of Commerce her demand for a share in the world's raw materials and its trade.

Col. General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, virtual dictator of Germany's four-year plan for self sufficiency, and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, her economic minister, spoke out to the 1,500 delegates from 40 countries to seek a German place in the economic sun—and the return of war-lost colonies.

Der fuehrer led the applause from the president's box.

He sat flanked by Goering and by the I. C. C.'s world president, F. H. Fentener Van Vlissingen, of The Netherlands.

U. S. Watches Scene

Curious eyes from all over the world, including the United States, were on der fuehrer as he gave a snappy Nazi salute and seated himself.

Only last night, at Wurzburg, Hitler had his own say on the reich's shortage of raw materials. Then he declared Germany would welcome an insurgent victory in Spain because, "as it is generally known, we try to buy ores everywhere." Spain is rich in the minerals that Germany needs.

It was Goering who sounded the Nazi colony keynote, with the declaration it was "intolerable" for the reich to be dependent economically on other nations.

The minister sounded Nazidom's determination to be self-sufficient just 18 years to the day since the formal signing of the treaty of Versailles stripped a conquered Germany of her colonial empire after the World war.

Colonies Are "Must"

Goering told the opening session of the ninth session of the International Chamber of Commerce "you may be sure Germany will continue to bring up the colonial problem until her urgent and legitimate desires regarding colonies are fulfilled."

"Furthermore, Germany is working with all her energy on the undertaking known as the four year plan," he warned.

"Just as Germany must be able finally to rely on her own strength —and on that alone—to defend her territory, so must she be self supporting economically if she is to preserve her independence, honor and international prestige," said Goering.

TAX COLLECTION IN JUNE $95,824

Real estate tax payments for the June collection, started June 1, now total $95,824.33, the slowest in several years, County Treasurer Homer D. Cole said today. The collection will run for several weeks yet.

Last year, the total collection for the June period was $493,000. Mr. Cole, attributed the slowness of this collection this year to the fact that the books were opened for payment on June 1, the legal starting date, while in past years the collection has not started until late in June.

As a result of the unusually early start, many people do not realize that their taxes are payable, Mr. Cole said.

Youths' Council of Ohio to Meet Here Tomorrow

200 Expected at Four-Day Convention of State Temperance Group.

Young people from all over the state will meet here Tuesday for a four-day convention of the Ohio Youths' Temperance Council of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Approximately 200 members are expected for the meeting, which will be held at Epworth M. E. church. Guest speakers will include officers and members of the council and its sponsoring group, and educators from colleges and universities.

Miss Elizabeth Jeffrey, president of the Marion county council, is general chairman of the committee in charge. The meeting will open with a banquet at 6 p. m. Tuesday in Epworth church, and talks will center on the general theme, "The Y. T. C. A. Airplane Speeding Forward." Dallas L. Hurd of Youngstown, state president, will act as pilot, and greetings will be given by Mayor F. C. Smith, who will welcome the visitors. R. T. Lewis, president of the Marion Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Edward T. Waring, pastor of the host church, Mrs. Laura Imbody, president of the Marion County W. C. T. U. and Miss Jeffrey.

Convention speakers will include Prof. G. Harrison Orians of Toledo, a former Marion resident and son of Mr. and Mrs. George Orians of North Seffner avenue, and a former state president of the organization, Dr. Walter A. Zaugg of Bowling Green university, also a past state president, Miss Helen L. Byrnes of Evanston, Ill., national secretary, Mrs. Viola D. Romans of Columbus, president of the state W. C. T. U. and a number of other outstanding temperance workers.

There will be a trip to the Harding memorial and Harding museum Wednesday afternoon, and a sunrise breakfast will feature the Thursday session. A pearl medal contest will be held Thursday night, and the session will close Friday morning with presentation of awards and announcement of the place for holding the next state meeting.

The state group was organized in 1916 and the first state convention was held at the First Presbyterian church here in 1918. At that time Dr. Walter A. Zaugg of Bowling Green State university, who will be a speaker at the Wednesday night session, presided as president. The Marion county council was organized two years ago last March. The purpose of the group is to carry on the work of the Women's Christian Temperance union of which it is a branch.

8 MILLIONS TRIMMED FROM FUNDS FOR WPA

Conferees Reach Accord on Relief and Quick Passage Expected.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 28—Senate and house conferees reached a speedy agreement today on the administration's $1,500,000,000 relief bill, after they had trimmed $8,000,000 from the funds earmarked for the public works administration.

By eliminating an item for unspecified "miscellaneous projects" the conferees cut the PWA funds from $367,000,000 to $359,000,000.

Few other important changes were made in the bill. Congressional chieftains said they expected to place the measure before both houses for final approval today.

The conference committee eliminated a provision which would have required the works progress administration to make public the names, positions, and salaries of all administrative officers.

LEIBOWITZ RETAINED AS IRWIN'S COUNSEL

Number of Ohio Steel Men Back on Job Set at 15,500

Gen. Light Makes Estimate as Companies Launch Back-To-Work Movements in Strike Plants.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 28—Maj. Gen. Glenn D. Light of the Ohio national guard said today approximately 15,500 men were back at work in the strike-ravaged steel plants in Youngstown.

Approximately 20,000 men are normally employed in the affected Youngstown mills.

As the strike called against four independent steel companies entered its 53rd day, back-to-work movements were launched all along the Ohio-Pennsylvania front.

The Steel Workers Organizing Committee, CIO affiliate, called out workers of Republic Steel Corp., Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Bethlehem Steel's Cambria plant at Johnstown, Pa., and the Inland Steel Co. after the concerns had refused to sign labor contracts with the SWOC.

CIO Claims Figures Wrong

CIO leaders, discounting claims of employers as to the number of men returning, declared the figures should be "discounted 50 per cent" and added "we have just begun to fight."

Gen. Light, whose Ohio guardsmen, under order of Gov. Martin L. Davey, are policing the back-to-work movement in the Mahoning valley, said 11,535 men entered Youngstown plants today and 4,229 last night.

At Sheet & Tube's Campbell plant, normally employing 10,000, he said 3,532 entered today and 1,525 last night.

At the Brier hill plant of Sheet & Tube, the guard officer estimated 1,556 came through the gates today and 574 last night.

Republic's "stop 5" plant, which normally has 6,000 employes saw 3,120 men go to work today and 2,200 last night, said Light. In addition about 300 men entered Republic's Basement plant in Youngstown, which is just getting under way, Gen. Light reported.

1,500 Return at Bethlehem

At Johnstown, P. E. Hewels, superintendent at the Cambria works' lower gate in Franklin borough, the principal entrance, said 1,500 men came to work today.

Plans were under way to attempt to reopen plants in the Cabinet area of Chicago where 22,000 workers have been affected by the strike.

Appealed to for national guardsmen to aid the mills to reopen, Gov. M. Clifford Townsend of Indiana said he would refuse such requests.

However, he said he would postpone a plan today which he believed would be acceptable by both sides. It will provide for reopening the mills under a truce while the national labor relations board hears CIO charges that Inland and Youngstown violated the Wagner act.

Says 500 Want To Work

A Republic Steel spokesman in Buffalo, N. Y., said "over 500" applied for employment at the gates of the company's south Buffalo plant. The plant has been operating since the strike was called with non-strikers quartered inside the grounds in Pullman cars.

Philip Murray, chairman of the SWOC, at Pittsburgh today, charged that "Ohio national guardsmen are being used as company police in an effort to break the steel strike."

He asserted that there was a "secret meeting" in Youngstown yesterday between officials of Republic Steel and Gen. Light "with the hope of having the Ohio national guard sent into Cleveland to break the steel strike there.

Republic has four plants in Cleveland which have been closed.

He disputed back-to-work figures issued by the guardsmen.

"They accept company figures," he declared.

Murray said his field men reported the following conditions today in some of the strike areas:

Canton, Ohio, 1,800 out of 7,500 Republic workers still at their jobs; Cleveland, 8,000 out at four Republic plants; Indiana Harbor, 24,000 employes of Inland Sheet & Tube still out; Massillon, Ohio, 4,000 Republic men on strike.

During the 53 days of strike for signed bargaining contracts, national guardsmen have been used in Michigan and in Ohio; and in Pennsylvania there has been martial law.

Half of Ohio's militia is mainting order today in the Mahoning valley, the heart of the state's steel industry. Gov. Martin L. Davey, in a lengthy statement last night, said he would keep the soldiers here "as long as necessary."

DAVEY ASKS 3 MILLIONS FOR PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

Senate and House Conferees Now Deadlocked Over Question of Aiding Religious Education.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 28—Sen. Horace W. Baggott, Democrat of Montgomery, said today Gov. Martin L. Davey told him he would send a special message to the legislature recommending a $3,000,000 appropriation for parochial school aid.

Baggott, leader of the "no new taxes" group of the senate, said the governor had advised him of his plans at their conference at the executive mansion last Friday.

The joint senate and house conference committee, attempting to adjust differences between the executive and senate "economy bloc" budgets so far has been unable to agree on the question of parochial school aid.

The senate-approved budget earmarked $1,000,000 public school funds for furnishing free text books for both public and parochial school pupils next year. The governor's budget carried no allowance for parochial schools.

Sen. Baggott said he expected the conference committee to have a compromise bill ready not earlier than Wednesday. Both houses are scheduled to meet tonight.

The conferees, Baggott said, started today on consideration of 1937-38 appropriation figures. During their morning work he said there had been full agreement on all departmental budgets considered so far.

The senate bill is about $3,000,000 lower than the administration measure passed by the house. As the conference committee was about to break up in disagreement a compromise was worked out. Gov. Davey accepted three of the "basic" conditions demanded by the bloc led by Sen. Horace W. Baggott, Democrat of Montgomery.

A fourth point insisted upon by the insurgent bloc was rejected by the governor. It was a proposal to write only one all-inclusive appropriations measure instead of seperate bills for certain functions such as highways and old age pensions. Indications were that the senate would yield on this point, however.

FLETCHER APPOINTED HEAD OF COMMITTEE

Marion Congressman Heads Important House Body; Only Ohioan So Honored.

Congressman Brooks Fletcher of Marion has been appointed chairman of the committee on the census in the national house of representatives, according to a news dispatch from Washington, D. C. He succeeds the late Congressman William P. Connery. In taking over his new position, Mr. Fletcher becomes the only member of the Ohio delegation in congress to receive a congressional committee chairmanship during the present administration, and has membership on a total of four committees, a larger number than assigned to most members of the Ohio delegation.

Mr. Fletcher was selected for the chairmanship by official resolution of the house. He transferred his chairmanship responsibilities from the committee on election of President, vice president and representatives. The census committee has a larger membership than the one Mr. Fletcher formerly headed.

Mr. Fletcher, following his selection as census committee chairman, said one of the major tasks confronting his committee, in the next congress will be the responsibility of drafting legislation that will set in motion the vast machinery to gather a complete 1940 census of population and manufacturing establishments in the United States and its possessions.

In addition to his chairmanship on the census committee, Mr. Fletcher holds ranking memberships on the education committee, committee on election of President, vice president and representatives and coinage.

When Mr. Fletcher was advanced to the new post, he turned over his elections committee chairmanship to Representative Caroline O'Day of New York, the ranking member of the committee, and the second woman ever to head a congressional committee.

Picnic Strengthens Plans To Keep Congress Going Until All Are Acted On.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 28—Democrats in congress settled down today to the task of enacting a heavy administration legislative program that may keep them at work until fall.

They said a series of week-end picnics with President Roosevelt and administration leaders on Jefferson Island in Chesapeake bay had strengthened sentiment for holding congress in session until it acts on major bills.

Leaders placed at the head of the legislative slate the court, government reorganization and wage and hour measures.

Sen. Robinson of Arkansas, senate floor leader, said debate on the court bill might be deferred until after July 4.

COUNTY ROAD WORK LISTED

Three Tentative Programs for Surface Treatment Submitted.

DRAWN BY ENGINEER

Board To Act on Proposed Improvement Estimated at Approximately $50,000.

Three programs for the annual summer surface treatment of county roads have been submitted to county commissioners for consideration, County Engineer Carl H. Tozzer announced today. The first program lists 45.15 miles of road which are in worst condition and should be resurfaced before all others at a cost of approximately $700 a mile or a total of $32,025.

The two additional programs list roads, also in need of repair or in need of entirely new surfaces, to cost an additional $18,300.

May Be Limited

The three programs were submitted, Mr. Tozzer explained, to permit commissioners to determine how much work can be done this year with the funds available. Mr. Tozzer said it is probable, in view of the county's financial condition, that only the most urgent work will be done.

The first additional program lists 17.8 miles of roads, at $700 a mile or a total of $12,460, which are in need of resurfacing. The second additional program presents 8.8 miles of road, scattered through the county, which should have new surfaces at a cost of $1,000 a mile.

As soon as the commissioners decide whether the county will work on only the one program, or two or all three, the engineer's office will work out estimates of the cost for possible bidders, Mr. Tozzer said.

List of Roads

The roads in the basic program are: Marseilles-Galion, Morral-Kirkpatrick, Wyandot county line road, Martel road, Linn-Hipsher road, Likens road, Likens Chapel, Marion-Williamsport, Agosta-Meeker, Linwood, Guthery, Boundary line, Richwood, Gooding Pike, Whetstone river road, Marion-Cardington, Bethlehem and Campbell. The roads will be repaired only in the worst sections, Mr. Tozzer said.

Commissioners today were considering a blanket road project which might include the annual surface treating. The total blanket project for all county roads is cost approximately $50,000, Earl J. Cusick, board president, said.

Funds Run Low

In connection with flood-damaged roads, Mr. Tozzer said he has informed commissioners that the funds for purchasing repair materials are now exhausted and that all work will have to be halted unless new regulations are made. The original grant for road repair exclusive of surface treating, this spring was $22,000. A similar amount will be needed for the last half of the year, Mr. Tozzer said.

Two Men Jailed After Long Ride on Stolen Bike

After pedaling from Marion to Toledo several days ago, two men, believed to have been employed with a carnival that showed here recently, were in county jail today—charged with stealing the bicycle.

The men are Woodrow Pridmore, a Michigan man, and John Letzenberg of Kentucky, according to Deputy Sheriff W. H. Willis, who returned them here from Toledo Saturday.

Deputy Willis said the bicycle had been stolen from the carnival ground here from Robert Briggs of Marion. It was valued at $20.

The men were arrested as they pedaled their way over the high-level bridge at Toledo, Deputy Willis said. Toledo police took them into custody merely on suspicion and it was not until Saturday that they were connected with the stolen bicycle. The bicycle was left in Toledo and will be shipped here, Deputy Willis said.

The trip to Toledo on the bicycle was made with the two men alternately pedaling and riding on the cross-bar.

AMERICAN CONQUERS BRITISH NET STAR

By The Associated Press

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 28—Don Budge, American's red-headed Davis cup ace, eliminated Vivian McGrath of Australia, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4, in the quarter-finals of the all-England tennis championships today but his tiny compatriot, Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta fell before the sound strokes of Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin of England, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.

Budge, still in top form, romped through McGrath, seeded No. 7, almost as he pleased, and continued his remarkable record of not losing a set in the current championships for in the Queens club tournament which preceded.

ARRAIGNMENT WEDNESDAY

Artist Surrenders in Chicago Newspaper Office and Is Flown Back to New York.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 28 — Robert Irwin, debonair one-time divinity student turned sculptor, was held without bail today in two brief court appearances and hired a well known criminal lawyer to defend him against the triple slaying on Beekman hill Easter Sunday.

Samuel Leibowitz, who has defended 123 persons in trial degree murder trials without a client going to the electric chair, announced the eccentric young man had retained him as counsel and immediately won a postponement of arraignment until June 30.

Irwin, held for the "manual strangulation" of beautiful Veronica Gedeon, artist's model, and her mother and the ice pick slaying of a roomer in the Gedeon home, was before Magistrate Brough in homicide court barely half a minute.

A short while previously, he had appeared in police lineup—outwardly calm appearing—for only a minute.

Waives Affidavit Reading

In magistrate's court, the man who had wandered, unidentified, through half a dozen or more states while the whole country searched for him, waived reading of the affidavit charging him with suspicion of homicide.

Yesterday, Leibowitz said, Irwin sent him two telegrams from Chicago asking the lawyer to become his counsel.

Although the 20-year-old artist formerly was an inmate of an insane asylum, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine and District Attorney William C. Dodge announced today they would ask the grand jury for three indictments for first degree murder in the slaying of Veronica Gedeon, young artists' model, her mother, and a male roomer.

A defendant must be adjudged sane to be convicted of murder in the first degree for which the penalty is death.

Surrenders To Newspaper

Irwin was arrested in Chicago yesterday, more than 12 hours after he had surrendered in the office of the Herald and Examiner, Chicago newspaper. He was brought here by airplane last night in the custody of New York detectives after waiving extradition.

The grand jury, Valentine and Dodge said in a joint statement, will be given a detailed statement which Irwin dictated to the Herald and Examiner, confessing all three murders, as well as additional statements they said he made to Chicago and New York police.

All three slayings were "accidental," Irwin is quoted as saying in the Chicago statement, since he went to the Gedeon apartment intending to murder the beautiful "Bonnie's" sister, Mrs. Ethel Kudner, and no one else.

The young sculptor said he would be saved from the electric chair because he had spent several years in what he called "the nut house."

Irwin was watched in a 24-hour guard by three policemen to prevent any danger of his taking his own life.

The confession made to the Chicago newspaper apparently was ac-

ENGINE STRIKES AUTO TRANSPORT AT CAREY

Four New Machines Damaged and Drivers Have Narrow Escape in Accident.

Special to The Star

CAREY, O., June 28—Two men narrowly escaped serious injury here last night when their truck transport loaded with four new automobiles, was struck by a freight train on the A., C. & Y. crossing. The men leaped from the cab of their truck a few seconds before the locomotive struck their machine.

Witnesses, sitting on their front porches, said the accident occurred about 9 p. m. as the truck slowed and then continued to cross the tracks. The names of the men were not learned.

The truck was going south on its way from Flint, Mich., and the train was going west. One of the new cars was knocked from its position on the trailer to the top of the truck cab, and the other three were jammed together. None of the cars was damaged greatly, with cars 1 and 3 and the truck was merely shoved to one side when hit.

The locomotive was not da-

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Pennington and daughter Dolores of Plain City, Miss Dorothy Fox and Miss Opal Graham of Prospect, Mr. and Mrs. James Sanderson and daughters Maxine and Joan.

Weddings

The marriage of Miss Katherine Kennedy, daughter of Mrs. Ernest Foster of Goshen, Ind., and Foster Troup, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Troup of Monnett, took place yesterday afternoon in the Methodist church at Kirkpatrick. About 150 relatives and guests attended the service which was read by the pastor, Rev. B. P. Angle, at 3 o'clock. The single ring service was used.

The attendants were the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Myron Kennedy of Goshen, Ind., and Frank Drabek of Columbus, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was the best man. Barbara and Marilyn Smith, nieces of the bride, were the flower girls, and her nephew, Sammy Kennedy, was the ring bearer. Ushering were Myron Kennedy of Goshen, Ind., and Curtis Smith, of Monnett, brother and brother-in-law of the bride.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Curtis Smith, the bride's sister, sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Thine Alone," "O, Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly," and Miss Jean Kennedy, a cousin, played Venetian Love Song," "To Spring," and "To a Wild Rose." For the processional and recessional she played the "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn Wedding marches, and during the ceremony "Viennese Melody." Decorations in the church were baskets of summer flowers and greenery which banked the altar.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her step-father Ernest Foster of Goshen, Ind., wore a gown of white lace over a satin slip. Her dress was made princess style with a short train, and a finger-tip length veil. Her flowers were Johanna Hill roses and sweet peas. The matron of honor was costumed in blue dotted voile and carried pink roses and delphinium, the bride's colors.

Following the ceremony there was an informal reception at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Troup will live in Columbus where the bridegroom is employed as a shipping clerk with the Columbus Heating & Ventilating Co. The bride has been making her home with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis at Monnette.

One of the pretty home weddings of the season was that of Miss Esther Haley and Howard Tittelbaugh, yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Haley of six miles east of Marion on the Edison road.

Before an improvised altar of palms and white lilies lighted by white tapers in candelabra, the couple exchanged vows read by Rev. H. H. Maxwell of Columbus, former Marion minister. The single ring service was read.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white embroidered net, made with a long full skirt, fitted bodice and puffed sleeves and carried a shower bouquet of Briarcliff and Killarney roses, feverfew and maiden hair fern. Her hip length veil of illusion-de-sole fell from a cap held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms.

Her sister, Miss Josephine Haley, was her maid of honor and wore a frock of rose pink embroidered net made exactly like the bride's, and carried Talisman roses and Gypsophia.

Allen Maxwell of Columbus attended Mr. Tittelbaugh as best man.

Mrs. Haley was in aqua blue lace and the bridegroom's mother was in flowered crepe. Both wore gardenia shoulder corsages.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Jane Williams of Columbus, a cousin of the bride, sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," "Will You Remember," "All For You," "At Dawning," "I Love You Truly" and "O Promise Me." As the bride descended the stair on the arm of her father the pianist, Miss Helen Williams of Columbus, a cousin, played the Mendelssohn wedding march. Prior to the service she had played "The Bells of St. Mary," "Venetian Love Song" and "Indian Love Call."

A reception for 50 relatives and friends followed the ceremony. The bride cut and served the tiered wedding cake which centered the refreshments table. Presiding at the table were Miss Josephine Haley and Miss Jane Williams. The bride's colors of pink and green were used in the appointments. An arrangement of pink larkspur and white candles centered the table.

Following a two weeks' trip to Niagara Falls, points in Canada, several New England states, New York City and Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Tittelbaugh will live in a newly furnished home at 111 Superior street. For traveling Mrs. Tittelbaugh wore a black net jacket dress trimmed with touches of white, and white accessories.

Mrs. Tittelbaugh was graduated from the Claridon High school in 1932 and from the Bethesda Hospital School of Nursing in Cincinnati. For the last year she has been a member of the staff of the Marion City hospital. Mr. Tittelbaugh a graduate of the Claridon High school in 1931 and of the Coyne Electrical school in Chicago, is employed at the Commercial Steel Casting Co. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Tittelbaugh, east of Marion.

About 40 relatives and friends attended.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS MEET IN CINCINNATI

Trustees from Marion County Attend State Session of Association.

Discussion of the effect on WPA on recovery of employment conditions in private industry and on the farms featured the Saturday session at the annual convention of the state association of township trustees and clerks at Cincinnati, County Engineer Carl H. Tozzer reported today following his return.

Others attending from Marion county in addition to Mr. Tozzer, who is secretary-treasurer of the county association, were Fred Baldinger of near Martel, county association president; Ralph Carey of Montgomery township, vice president; H. F. Roesch of Tully township, Dennis J. Ryan of Grand township, and all the trustees of Claridon and Tully townships.

The discussion of WPA centered about the belief that the work relief agency is preventing workers from returning to work on the farm and in industry by offering good pay and assurance of steady work.

Charles Taft, Republican leader of Cincinnati, also spoke to the convention on "home rule," stressing the need for local governments.

LEIBOWITZ HIRED TO DEFEND IRWIN

repted by the New York police, for Valentine and Dodge said:

"He (Irwin) further stated that the statement which he made to the newspaper in Chicago was revised and corrected by him, and signed by him, and that that statement was a correct statement."

The wheels of justice turned speedily from his arrest soon after noon yesterday.

Despite a wide distribution of circulars for his apprehension, Irwin had worked unnoticed in a Cleveland hotel from April 8, a few days after the murders on March 27, until last Thursday. A kitchen maid then recognized his picture in a detective magazine, asked him about his identity, and he fled.

He arrived in Chicago at 7:20 a. m. Saturday, roamed the streets, attended a movie, and then, late in the day, leisurely walked into the newspaper office. Full details of what happened between then and his arrest Sunday afternoon were not made public.

He Becomes Gloomy

With the arrest, Irwin, turning from nonchalance to gloominess, from hitherness to surliness, was hurried through routine moves in Chicago and brought here.

His face almost expressionless, Irwin was rushed from Floyd Bennett airport to police headquarters in a motor caravan of screaming sirens. Valentine, Dodge, and leading investigators of the three-months-old murders were waiting for him.

They questioned him on the amazingly frank story Irwin gave the Chicago newspaper, of how the murders were committed singly through a period of many hours, of how "Ronnie," the 20-year-old model, might have lived if she had not recognized her assailant, and of how the mother, Mary, 54, struggled furiously against death.

Irwin, a minister's son and one-time student of divinity, as related in the newspaper statement, went to the Gedeon apartment to murder Mrs. Kudner.

Feelings a Paradox

"I wanted to kill Ethel because she was the dearest object in the world to me. I lover her and hated her. I dreamed of modelling her as if beheaded, with her head far back and the mouth open...."

The motive, intertwined with Irwin's peculiar philosophy of life, was recorded by the newspaper in this way:

"The one driving impulse of a man's life was sex. I figured that if I could remove sexual impulse and put myself under pressure, that I could solve that problem.

"All the time I knew there was only one way out of it, by murdering somebody. If I were to do something like that I would put myself on a spiritual plane and make everything even.

"I have nothing against anybody...."

Irwin was welcomed by Mrs. Gedeon, who was in the apartment alone. After they chatted for hours, and he drew sketches of her, she ordered him to leave. He refused, they fought, and eventually he strangled her, according to the statement.

Then a wait for Ethel, but "Ronnie" came instead, alone. She didn't see him. He crept up behind her, grabbed her throat. He didn't want to kill her.

Avoided Death

"I was very careful not to press too hard—just hard enough so she couldn't make a noise, but could breathe. I think I held her that way at least an hour....I thought she didn't know who I was. But she did. And what cost her life was that she said so...She knew me. I didn't know what to do. I didn't want to murder the whole neighborhood. I wanted to let Ronnie live if I could.

"She was beautiful. I hate to destroy beauty...I began to think that, with Ronnie knowing me as she did, I didn't have any alternative. I strangled her."

All this time the roomer, Frank Byrnes, a club waiter, was asleep in the next room. He had seen Irwin enter. The statement told of plunging an ice picked into the side of his skull. He mustn't tell police.

Another wait, this time for Ethel. She failed to appear. Irwin walked out into the Easter dawn, calm with death behind him.

A story copyrighted by the Chicago Herald and Examiner said Irwin "has pleasant memories of his stay of almost three months in Cleveland." The story said Irwin still would be a bar boy in Hotel Statler if he could have his way.

Fared Well in Cleveland

While in Cleveland, the story said, Irwin felt reasonably well off financially on his salary plus tips. He also felt safe here until Henrietta Kosclanski, the pantry maid, saw pictures of Irwin in a detective magazine and identified them as being photographs of "Murray," the bar boy.

The Chicago Herald and Examiner said Irwin professed to despise Miss Kosclanski, who asked him who he was and suggested he might be the pictured Irwin.

"I said no and picked up an order of butter and beat it," Irwin was quoted as saying in Chicago.

Irwin asserted he disliked Miss Kosclanski very much because she continually "pestered me to draw her picture." On the other hand, Irwin professed a liking for a kitchen maid named Mary, but said she would not respond to his advances.

House Detectives Friendly

House detectives at Hotel Statler became his friends, Irwin said, and they never had any suspicion of him. There was a policeman, however, who worried Irwin. The policeman dropped into the hotel employes' dining room for a free snack now and then, Irwin said.

"He gave me such searching stares," Irwin continued, "that I figured he was thinking to himself: 'Where have I seen that face before?' I figured the best thing to do was to take the bull by the horns.

"So the next time he came in I took my place and went over and sat beside him and asked him all about the police force and told him what fine men they were. From then on we were pals."

Patrolman Thomas J. Stanton, assigned to traffic duty in front of Hotel Statler, said several employes of the Statler grill had told him yesterday that he should remember Irwin as a bar boy to whom he talked frequently.

Talked to Bar Boy

"They come and go there so much," Stanton said. "I wouldn't remember. I do remember there was one bar boy I talked to, but his hair was cut very close and he didn't look like any descriptions of Irwin I'd ever seen.

"I did not eat in the employes' dining room, anyway. I ate in the grill."

Miss Kosclanski, who is 19 said that she had received a telegram from Inside Detective, a magazine, saying it was "practically certain" she would receive the publication's reward of $1,000 offered for information leading to the arrest of Irwin.

The pantry girl said she had received financial offers from two other publications for the story of her life. She was shown a copy of yesterday's Chicago Herald and Examiner, on the first page of which was a large portrait of Irwin.

"Oh, my God!" she exclaimed. "That's him all right! That's sure him! It looks more like him than the others in the magazine. There's no doubt about it."

Before Lieut. Martin S. Owen and Detective Frank J. Crimmins, with two other members of the New York police force, took Irwin aboard the plane in Chicago last night, the confessed killer told reporters that poverty had forced him to surrender and that the urgent immediate need of funds had caused him to go to the Chicago Herald and Examiner rather than to the police.

Irwin is under a two-week contract not to discuss his case, he said, and he even begged John L. Sullivan, chief of Chicago detectives, not to question him about the killings because of his written agreement with the newspaper. Irwin maintained that he called the newspaper and voluntarily appeared there to tell his story.

Lack of funds caused Irwin to choose Chicago as his destination rather than New York in his flight from Cleveland. He said he boarded the train here at 10:30 p. m. Friday and arrived in Chicago at 6:30 a. m. Saturday.

First, Irwin related, he took a long walk in the Chicago streets he knew so well when he was a pupil there under the late Lorado Taft, one of the greatest American sculptors. He visited the Art Institute, where he had been so many times as a young art student. Then he strolled around a site of a Century of Progress exposition, now a park. Later he had breakfast.

After that Irwin went to the Chicago theater, where he saw movies of the Joe Louis-Jimmy Braddock championship fight. When he left the theater he was virtually "broke." Thereupon he made up his mind to call the Herald and Examiner and make his offer to surrender.

PASTOR IS INVITED BACK TO CHURCHES

Rev. Henry Maag's Return Asked at Quarterly Conference.

A resolution for the return of the pastor, Rev. Henry Maag, for the next year was unanimously adopted yesterday afternoon at a quarterly conference of the official boards of three Methodist churches, the Prospect Street M. E. church and the Zion and Bethlehem rural M. E. churches.

Dr. Walter Castoe of Lima, district superintendent, was in charge of the conference, which was held at the Bethlehem church on the Bethlehem road. Reports of committees were given and officers, trustees and stewards for the coming year were elected. Carlton Schmidt of West Fairground street was elected financial secretary of the Prospect Street church.

Mr. Castoe preached the morning service at the Zion church at 9 a. m. and at 10:30 at the Prospect Street church. Rev. Maag conducted the morning service at 9 at the Bethlehem church.

CARDINGTON GIRL CLAIMED BY DEATH

Miss Louise Sellars, 19, Dies at City Hospital.

Miss Louise Sellars, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Sellars of two and one-half miles west of Cardington, died today at 7:10 a. m. at City hospital of a lung abscess following an attack of pneumonia. She was admitted to the hospital last night for emergency treatment, after more than a week's illness at her home.

Miss Sellars was born Aug. 28, 1917, and was graduated in 1936 from the Cardington High school. She is survived by her parents, two sisters, Hazel at home and Mrs. Mildred Welch of Ashley, and a grandmother Mrs. Weltha Sellars of Cardington. The girl's mother operates a dressmaking and millinery shop in Cardington.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. George Huntsman of 514 Melbourne avenue are parents of a son, born Saturday night at the Frederick C. Smith clinic on East Church street.

A daughter, Patricia Anne, was born Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Redman at the home of Mrs. Redman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCombs of the Keener pike.

Word of the birth of a daughter, Norma Louise, to Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Jacobs of Fort Wayne, Ind., last Thursday, has been received by Marion friends of the couple. Mrs. Jacobs is the former Marguerite Unger, daughter of Mrs. Edward Unger, formerly of Marion.

FUNERAL RITES

Funeral services were held for Miss Faye Urick Saturday afternoon at the Boyd funeral home at 3:30 Saturday afternoon with burial following in Forest Glen Memorial Park. Miss Urick, 31, died Thursday after an illness of several years. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Georgia DeVore of Chicago, and by an aunt, Mrs. Robert Campbell of 292 Clinton street. The Christian Science funeral service was read.

By adding 25 feet to its length and installing new engines the speed of a British passenger liner was increased so that it reduced its time between England and South Africa by three days.

Brothers Are Foes in Inter-City Golf Match

Two brothers were friendly foes when Marysville and Mar-O-Del golfers played a match here yesterday. The Marysville team won the match 24½ to 20½.

The brothers who were matched for play in the inter-club contest are H. G. Greenfield of Marion, associated with the Western & Southern Life Insurance Co., and Seward Greenfield of Milford Center, a mail carrier.

Seward Greenfield was one stroke above his brother for the total 18-hole score with a 115 as compared with Harold's 114, but he managed to score two points to his brother's one due to the method of scoring.

A blind bogey tournament was run in connection with the match play and was won by G. L. Kingsmore, pro at the Marysville club, with a gross of 80.

Low score of the day was shot by Ben Miller, greenskeeper at Mar-O-Del. He carded a 77.

Complete results of the play with the name of the Marion players listed first in each pairing, scores for each player and the points in parenthesis scored in the match follow:

Walter Hughes 93, G. L. Kingsmore 80, (three points); Carl Wiseman 92 (1 point), J. Lentz 87, (2 points); T. J. Martin 91, M. Arnold 83 (3 points); John Artopoeus 94 (½ point), J. Pearr 92 (2½ points); Joe Fogle 102 (½ point), A. Galloway 91 (2½ points); John McIntire 103 (½ point), Dr. H. E. Stricker 95 (2½ points); Dick Whaley 103, F. Johnson 91 (3 points); John Jevas 103 (2½ points), Stillings 100 (½ point); B. H. Buettin 97 (½ point), H. L. Huffman 90 (3½ points); L. F. Groll 89 (3 points), R. B. Neer 98; Eddie Dutt 84 (2½ points), Woodruff 84 (½ point); Ben Miller 77 (3 points), Chandler 94; Ross Fogle 85 (2½ points) Rogers 83 (½ point); Carl Jacoby 104 (3 points), Jissner 115; H. G. Greenfield 114 (1 point), Seward Greenfield 115 (2 points).

Yesterday's contest was a return match following a contest between the clubs at the Marysville course two weeks ago which Marion won, 27½ to 20½.

Lincoln H. Heineman, 63, of 935 Merkle avenue, an Erie railroad employe for 31 years, died last night at 10 o'clock at the Frederick C. Smith clinic, after a week's illness of paralysis. He was born at Galion June 12, 1874, the son of Harry and Lena Pfeiffer Heineman, natives of Pennsylvania and Galion.

He was a member of the Episcopal church at Galion. Starting as a telegrapher with the Erie railroad in 1906, he became a foreman at the icing plant in 1918 and later was made an inspector of refrigeration. A daughter, Mrs. M. A. Lewis of 935 Merkle avenue and two grandchildren, Robert and Mary Lou, survive. Two half-brothers reside in Los Angeles and Chicago.

The body will be at the Gunder & Sons funeral home until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be held at the Merkle avenue residence at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and burial will be made at Caledonia.

DRIVER GETS FINE AND JAIL TERM

Marvin Gaither, 21, of 268 East Walnut street was arrested by police at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning for driving while intoxicated in the uptown section. He pleaded guilty at an arraignment in municipal court this morning. Gaither was fined $100 and costs, sentenced to 10 days in the county jail and his driving rights were revoked for six months.

SECOND ANNUAL REUNION HELD BY TALLY HO CLUB

Banquet Stories and Songs of Past Make Up Program as Old-Time Social Group Meets.

Old times were recalled Saturday when members of the Tally Ho club an organization of young Marion men which had a prominent place in social affairs of the city more than 30 years ago, held their second annual reunion at the Edgewood club.

Fifteen of the former Tally Ho members and two guests were present and telegrams and letters were received from five others unable to attend. The guests were William Dowler and John H. Haines, members of the orchestra which played for the Tally Ho minstrel show given at the old Grand Opera House 33 years ago. Mr. Dowler was the orchestra director and Mr. Haines violinist. The club had its quarters on the second and third floors of the opera house building, which later was partially destroyed by fire and then reconstructed into what is now the Ohio theater and Elks building.

Dinner and Program

The reunion started at 1 p. m. Saturday and continued until several hours after a 6:30 o'clock dinner. The entertainment included songs and music popular during the time that the Tally Ho club was in existance, among the numbers being several that were in the minstrel program.

Short talks, including stories and reminiscences of the club days, were given by the members and guests. Charles E. Sechrist, manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and president of the club's reunion association last year, was toastmaster. Elmer J. Schoenlaub was elected president and William G. Lusch secretary for the coming year. Arrangements were made for making the reunion an annual event.

Memorial List Read

Memorial tributes were spoken for members who have died. On the memorial list are Harry Love, Glade Thomas, Oscar Zimmerman, Benjamin Blake, Oscar Markert, George Schweinfurth, Harold S. Wilson, Emerson Terpany, Joseph Wark and Clifford Keller.

Members attending the reunion were W. E. Hochstetter of Bucyrus, Fred L. Jessop of Youngstown, George E. McCormick of Los Angeles, Calif., B. F. Snider of Columbus, and John Probst, Fred E. Scherff, Dr. A. B. Lawson, Paul Castner, Jay Vaughan, E. I. Belcher, Frank J. Weber, W. G. Lusch, Carl Bauslinger, Harry S. Elliott, Clayborne V. Hudson, Ralph E. Cheney, Elmer J. Schoenlaub, and Charles E. Sechrist, all of Marion.

Messages were received from Carey W. Hord of New York City, Harry L. Waggoner of Chicago, Clarence Coute of Marion, Fred G. Diebold of Buffalo, N. Y., and Richard Dodge of Toledo.

FORD FIRM DENIES VIOLATING LAWS

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, June 28—A Ford Motor Co. attorney branded as "untrue" today charges on which he said the national labor relations board had based a formal complaint of unfair labor practices.

"We have not violated the national labor relations act," Attorney Louis J. Colombo said. "The national labor relations board's charges that we have done so are untrue. Beyond that I have no comment."

The complaint was filed in the regional office of the NLRB here Saturday night.

In part, the nine-page complaint was based on the beating of organizers for the United Automobile Workers of America when they tried to distribute union literature to Ford workers outside the mammoth Rouge plant in Dearborn May 26.

CHURCH TRIES "HALF-TIME"

To meet the objections of many people to going to church on Sunday evening, Rev. E. F. L. Hensen, vicar of the Church of St. Paul's in London is trying a "half-time interval." This enables parishioners to attend the first half, the second half, or all the service.

A London hospital has been equipped with a pipe line system to convey oxygen to beddes to avoid the gas to them.

U. S. FORCE PICKED FOR RYDER TOURNEY

By The Associated Press

SOUTHPORT, Eng., June 28—Capt. Walter Hagen today selected five men with British golfing experience and three rookies to start defense of the Ryder cup against Great Britain in the Scotch foursomes over the rugged Southport and Ainsdale course tomorrow.

The non-playing captain of the American forces sent Sam Snead, sensational rookie, and Horton Smith to the sidelines and paired Gene Sarazen and Denny Shute; Byron Nelson and Ed Dudley; Tony Manero and Ralph Guldahl, the American open champion; and Henry Picard and Johnny Revolta for the tandem events.

Hagen indicated, however, that Snead and Smith both would be included in the singles lineup which will be announced tomorrow night. The cup program calls for four foursomes matches tomorrow and eight singles matches Wednesday.

NEW TRIALS DENIED IN FOUR ACTIONS

Judge Young Overrules Motions in Court Cases Heard Here.

Judge Hector S. Young in common pleas court Saturday overruled motions for new trials in four jury cases heard recently. They are in the suits of Mrs. Lavina Coulter and others against Charles Drake and others; Dale Orr against Miss Kathryn Burke; Walton Leuthold against the Central Utilities Service Corp. and Lulu Patton against the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

The Coulter-Drake case was among five children of the late Mrs. Barbra Drake of near Caledonia and a jury early this month ordered a codicil to the will set aside. The new trial motion was filed by Charles Drake, administrator of the estate under the codicil.

The Orr-Burke case was filed by Dale Orr of 616 North State street against Miss Burke, who resides at 1153 East Church street, for $30,000 damages for injuries suffered by Orr when his paint ladder was knocked to the ground by the auto of Miss Burke. A jury denied Orr damages.

Walton Leuthold of near Bucyrus was awarded $100 damages in his $10,000 suit against the utilities company for injuries suffered from a shock received when high tension wires became crossed with house wires. He filed the motion for a new trial.

In the last case a new trial was sought by the railroad after a jury had awarded the plaintiff $2,000 damages in the death of a relative in a train-truck collision near Bucyrus.

FIRE BUG ADMITS CINCINNATI CRIMES

Marriage Meddlers

BY ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Suspects Something Is Troubling Madge.

"MAY I OFFER a suggestion?" Katherine said as I crossed the threshold of the nursery cabin with Marion and Carolyn, who were intent upon freshening up their fripperies for the evening.

"A dozen," I tossed back with an answering smile to the one which had accompanied her words.

"I can attend to the proverbial two birds here—combine getting Faith ready for bed with showing the girls where to set up the ironing board and connect the iron. So, if you and Lillian can grant Harry's plaintive plea to 'rustle some sandwiches', all ends will be served."

"The sandwiches ought to be trembling in their lairs about now," I told her, and departed upon the word, leaving Marion and Carolyn giving vent to ecstatic ejaculations over Faith, whom they both adore. In high good humor, as if she realized their admiration, she was "showing off" her baby tricks in a fashion most gratifying to a fatuous mother and nurse.

Harry Underwood unconsciously played into my hand when I came out of the door. He dashed over to me and put his hands together as if he were pleading for his life.

Lillian Suspicious

"Have mercy, La-Madge-ee!" he cried in whining tremolo. "I am famished. When do I get a sandwich?"

"As soon as I can put one together," I answered. "Lillian, will you help me?"

"Will I do anything else but?" she retorted with alacrity, linking her arm in mine and hurrying with me to the cabin where the boys had dressed. When I had closed the door behind us, she swung me around by the shoulders, and looked intently at me.

"Something's bothering you a lot," she said. "I know by the lines around your mouth. What's up?"

"Plenty," I said laconically. "I'll tell you when we get Harry's sandwiches out of the way."

"T. Tophet with Harry's sandwiches!" she said with twinkling eyes. "It'll be good for his figger to wait for 'em."

But I was adamant.

Delays Her Story

"You'll not find out until I get those sandwiches out of the way," I told her. "You know Harry. He'll probably be storming the door in five minutes more."

"What if he does?" she queried with mock belligerence; then she capitulated with a wry grin.

"You're right, at that. We'll follow the time-honored motto of wives—feed the brutes—and then we'll have a good old confab while the girls are primping. They'll take a good hour, and as you and I are what is known in the 'profesh' as 'quick changes,' you'll have ample time to tell me before it's time to start out for the evening's festivities. By the way, what about Katrina? She stays with Faith, I take it, but if she'd like to go, you know I'd love to spell her for the evening."

"So would I," I said slowly, for this question of reaction for my cousin's wife was a matter which troubled me greatly. "But, honestly, I don't believe she cares to go away from the camp. Sometimes Mrs. Gibbs and I make her go for a drive, or to the cinema, if something especially good is on. Either Mrs. Gibbs stays with Faith and I take Katherine, or we reverse the procedure. But while she is appreciative, she is not enthusiastic. She seems to prefer the camp to any other place."

Sympathy for Katherine

"That's because her nerves are on edge," Lillian said sagely while we feverishly prepared sandwich filling of ground meat with pungent dressing. "There's nothing like the woods and water for tired nerves and broken spirits, and I'm afraid our Katrina has both."

"I'm afraid so," I answered. "If only there were some way out—something I could do."

"But there isn't just now," Lillian said practically, "so why use up your nerves and spirits worrying over something that can't be helped? Save them to use for Kathy at the first opportunity. There! there dratted sandwiches are ready, and not a second too soon. Harry is at the door."

SKETCH TO IDENTIFY TROOP AT JAMBOREE

Harding Memorial Painting by Richard Acker To Be Hung at Camp.

A sketch of the Harding memorial, painted by Scout Richard Acker, 16, of 195 Lake street, will be used in Washington, D. C., to identify the location of the Harding area's delegation to the national Boy Scout Jamboree, which opens next Tuesday. A lettered sign at the bottom of the sketch will complete the identification.

The sketch measures 36 by 40 inches and will be hung from the archway leading to the camp site to be used by the 40 scouts and leaders representing the Harding area. The site is 90 by 90 feet and is directly opposite the Lincoln memorial.

Ackers' sketch will be returned to Marion after the jamboree and will be placed permanently over the entrance to Scout Camp John A. Owens. Acker is senior patrol leader of the Harding area delegation to the jamboree and is a son of R. E. Acker, assistant scoutmaster of the jamboree troops.

SIMPLE DIGNITY marked the wedding of Miss Mayo C. Gibson, daughter of Mrs. Lewis Ruth of 189 East Pleasant street, and James Earl Adams Jr. of Washington, D. C., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Adams of Akron, yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church.

Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, pastor, read the single ring service in the presence of 250 guests, and following the ceremony the couple turned and received their friends in front of the altar.

At 4:30 o'clock Mrs. Fanny Benson, organist, began a service of music, playing "Romanze" by Adolf Henslet, "The Evening Star" from Wagner's "Tannhauser," and "Melody," by Jones, and L. G. Jones, public school music supervisor, sang "To You," by Oley Speaks and "Because," by D'Hardelot.

The guests were ushered to their seats by Paul McIntosh and J. Wendell Wiant.

During the music service the bride's niece, Miss Jane Shoneman of Marion, lighted the tall white tapers in two seven-branch candelabra on either side of the altar. She was in a long white-dotted blue organza frock made with puffed sleeves, a Peter Pan collar edged with a ruffle, and a double ruffle down the front of the bodice. A pink grosgrain ribbon bow at the collar and a narrow tailored belt of the ribbon completed her costume. She wore a wrist corsage of pink rosebuds, gypsophilia and pink larkspur.

As the wedding march from "Lohengrin" began, Miss Gibson and her matron of honor, Mrs. Wilbur E. Snowden of Akron, sister of the bridegroom, entered from one side of the auditorium and Mr. Adams, his best man, Paul Mauger of Marion, and Rev. Olewiler entered from the opposite side, meeting at the altar. During the service Mrs. Benson played "Liebestraum" and at the close, the Mendelssohn wedding march, moving into "Poem" by Fibich during the reception.

The bride wore a pink lace formal gown with a smart fitted jacket and a tiny starched net hat edged in velvet flowers and a wide veil of the net. The jacket, fastened at the waist with a row of tiny covered buttons, was made with a brief peplum, a narrow stand-up collar and sleeves full above the elbow and fitted to the wrist. Her arm bouquet was of Sweetheart roses and pale blue delphinium.

Mrs. Snowden was in aqua taffeta, with a short fitted jacket made with short puffed sleeves, and carried gladioli blossoms, gypsophilia and pink roses in an arm bouquet.

The bride's mother was in black and white printed chiffon with a black straw hat and Mrs. Adams was in navy blue lace with a wide-brimmed navy straw hat. Their shoulder corsages were of gardenias.

Baskets of white lilies, snowballs and delphinium and palms and ferns banked the altar and in the center was a tall basket of white gladioli.

Luncheon for the bridal party, a few close friends and the immediate families were served at 5:30 o'clock at the Center tearoom on South Main street. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Snowden, Mr. and Mrs. Mark MacDonald of Akron and Miss Mary Berger of Steubenville.

Late last evening Mr. and Mrs. Adams left on a two-weeks' motor trip to Washington, D. C., where they will make their home after Sept. 1. Mrs. Adams wore a tailored brown net dress appliqued in ecru linen, a linen hat and coat and brown accessories.

In two weeks Mrs. Adams will return to Marion and until Sept. 1 will continue in charge of sales and demonstrating of office supplies and equipment for Wiant's Book store on South Main street. Prior to accepting her present position a year ago, Mrs. Adams was secretary-bookkeeper for the Marion board of education, working in the office of Supt. C. A. Hudson, and before that was in the office of the Marion Photoplay Co. She is a graduate of Marion High school and has taken extension courses from several universities. She is a member of the Marion Chapter of Altrusa.

Mr. Adams, a graduate of Heidelberg college and former football coach and instructor in the Napoleon High school, is the Washington, D. C., manager for Goodyear Service.

OPEN house was observed Sunday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at the home of G. E. Abel of 606 Windsor street for the pleasure of Mr. Abel's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Adams of Akron, former residents of Marion. The affair was arranged by the children of the celebrants, Miss Margaret C. Adams of Columbus, Robert A. Adams of Akron, Mrs. Carl E. Fuls of Dayton and Miss Louise Adams of Marion. Roses in a ruby shade carried out a decorative note in keeping with the anniversary year, and baskets of summer flowers were used throughout the rooms. Mr. and Mrs. Abel were presented a Gladstone bag by their children.

At noon the immediate family and more than 30 relatives met for a box social in the Eagles dining room.

A 6 o'clock dinner at the Masonic temple Friday evening closed the season for the Past Matrons circle of Lydia Chapter No. 83, Order of the Eastern Star. Guests included Miss Isabel Stump, worthy matron, Harold Hall, worthy patron and Mrs. Hall, and a number of past patrons and their wives. Mrs. Lauretta Carhart, retiring president, and Mrs. Florence Pickerel, newly-elected president, were presented corsages, and the guest favors were nosegays of summer flowers. Mrs. Carhart presided for the installation of Mrs. Pickerel as president, Mrs. Lydia Guthrie, vice president, and Mrs. Mary Livensparger, secretary and treasurer. Arrangements for the party were in charge of a committee composed of Mrs. Katharine Smith, Mrs. Villa Neidhart, Miss Nettie Smith, Mrs. Ella Williams, Mrs. Jessie Conley, Mrs. Elmira Banfill, Mrs. Gertrude Everett and Mrs. Maude Roberts. The group will resume meetings in September.

A birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith of Woodrow avenue Saturday afternoon was in honor of the fourth anniversary of their son, Max Eugene Smith. Contests were won by Dickie Baker and Mae Louise Sharp. Present were June Kenyon, Bobby Alexander, Dickie Baker, Mae Louise Sharp, Patty and Johnnie Bosh, Carn Mae, Billy and Gene Merrow, John Korte, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Campbell, Mrs. John Seigman, Mary Merrow and Chester West.

Tables were laid on the lawn at the home of Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Grant of Harpster when the Unity Bible class of Wesley M. E. church met for a picnic Saturday evening. Families of the members were guests. The occasion marked the twenty-second wedding anni-

Stauffer-Guthrie Ceremony Read at Presbyterian Church

MISS BETTY JANE STAUFFER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Stauffer of 133 Curtis court, became the bride of John Andrew Guthrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Guthrie of 656 South Prospect street, Sunday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church. The pastor, Rev. Howard L. Olewiler, read the double ring service shortly after 2:30 o'clock in the presence of several hundred guests. Open church was observed for the ceremony.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her bridesmaids Misses Ruth Emery and Ruth Ellen Mounts, her matron of honor who was her cousin, Mrs. Clifford Irey, and her maid of honor, the bridegroom's sister, Miss Mary Guthrie.

Layton S. Shaffer Jr. was Mr. Guthrie's best man and ushering were George Howser, and Gene Phillians, head ushers, and Ralph Courtney, Philip Boyd and Henry R. Stauffer Jr., honorary usher.

The bride entered on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white satin was in Colonial style with a basque and long, tight-fitting sleeves. The bodice had a square neckline and was buttoned down the front with tiny self-covered buttons, which were repeated on the sleeves. The full skirt ended in a train. Her long tulle veil had a short over-the-face veil and both were held with a Juliet cap caught in front with gardenias. Her bridal bouquet was in Colonial style tied with a white satin bow, and her only jewelry was a gold necklace with a blue sapphire pendant, the gift of the bridegroom.

Bridesmaids' Gowns

The bridesmaids' gowns were of taffeta and fashioned on lines similar to that worn by the bride. The bodices had high necklines and they were tight-fitting basque jackets. All wore open-crown off-the-face poke bonnets of white straw, white mitts and their shoes matched their gowns. Their Colonial bouquets were fashioned of roses, delphinium, gypsophilia and daisies with frills. Miss Mounts was in peach, Miss Emery green, Mrs. Irey yellow, and Miss Guthrie in blue.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. R. O. Bresler, organist, played a program of nuptial numbers, and accompanied William Zachman who sang "I Love You Truly," Bond. Her program included "Romance," Tours, "Canzonetta," Armstrong, "Orange Blossoms," and "Indian Love Call," Friml, "Cantilene Nuptiale," Dubois, "Chant d' Amour," Frommel, "The Rosary," Nevin, and "Meditation," Sturges. For the processional she played the "Lohengrin" march and for the recessional the Mendelssohn march. During the ceremony she played "All For You."

The altar was banked with palms and ferns in the center of which was a large white basket filled with white gladiolus. At either side were smaller baskets filled with white lilies and field daisies, and white seven-branch candelabra holding lighted cathedral tapers.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Stauffer were host and hostess at a reception for more than 100 guests at their home. Mrs. Stauffer wore a powder blue lace gown and white accessories, with a corsage of Briar Cliff roses, and Mrs. Guthrie was costumed in navy blue net with white accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of gardenias. The bride's grandmother Mrs. George E. McCormick, wore a gown of royal blue and silver.

On Lake Cruise

For their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie will take a boat cruise on Lake Erie, and before returning to Marion will motor to Indiana where they will visit relatives. For traveling Mrs. Guthrie chose a yellow linen suit with a matching linen hat and brown and white accessories. Her corsage was Talisman roses and blue delphinium.

The bride's parents entertained with a breakfast Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, for the bridal party and guests, and Mr. Guthrie's bachelor party was Saturday night at the Elks' club. Centering the bride's table for the breakfast was a large wedding cake and her wedding colors predominated in the decorations for smaller tables arranged throughout the rooms. At this time the bride presented her gifts to her attendants which were gold bracelets, and Mrs. Stauffer presented them with mitts which they wore for the ceremony. Covers were laid for 25. Assisting were Misses Martha Jane Van Atta, Gladys Hinamon and Betty Moore, members of the former Sub-Debs club of which the bride was a member. Miss Stauffer wore a frock of yellow chiffon for the breakfast. Her gifts to the assistants, who also served during the reception, were clips. Mr. Guthrie's gifts to his best man and the ushers were shaving sets and bill folds and he was presented an electric shaving outfit.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. McCormick of Los Angeles, Calif., Miss Sue McCormick of Muncie, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Busey, Mr. and Mrs. William Diehl of Columbus, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Knapp, Miss Betty Knapp, Dr. William A. Richwood Girl Weds Indiana Man at Hotel

ONE OF the loveliest weddings of June took place Sunday afternoon in the ballroom at Hotel Harding when Miss Lucile Lucretia Lee became the bride of Richard DeVon Laymon. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lee of Richwood, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Laymon of LaPorte, Ind.

The double ring service was read by Rev. B. F. McKinnon, pastor of the Richwood M. E. church, at 3 o'clock, before an improvised altar of palms, ferns, and baskets filled with white summer bloom. Completing the decorative note was an archway and at either side was seven-branch candelbra holding lighted tapers.

Preceding the ceremony there was a program of nuptial music played by Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, pianist. She played "June," by Tschaikowsky, "Romance," opus 45, No. 1, Gruenfeld, and "Le Cygne," by Saint Saens. She played the wedding marches and also accompanied Miss Corinne Slack of Columbus, who sang "I Love You Truly," Bond, and "At Dawning," Cadman, and Mrs. A. D. Ehlinger, of Columbus, who whistled "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and "Indian Love Call." During the ceremony she played "Leibestraum."

Given By Father

The bride was escorted down the aisle and given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown of white mousseline de soie over bridal satin, was fashioned in a redingote style, which was graduated into a four-yard train, and the bodice, which was fitted in a basque effect was buttoned down the front with satin covered buttons. The high neckline was cut rounded, and the short puffed sleeves had double pointed cuffs of stitched mousseline fitted close above the elbow. Her veil of imported tulle cascaded in a long train and was caught to her head with a wreath of orange blossoms. She wore white satin pumps and long white gloves, and her flowers were a bridal bouquet of white rosebuds and lilies of the valley.

Miss Edna Still of Upper Sandusky was the bride's maid of honor and her only attendant. She wore a gown of aqua net embroidered in yellow and violet, over a satin slip, and the skirt ended in a train. The bodice had short, puffed sleeves and a stand-up collar, and her large hat, in a matching shade, was open crown and fashioned with a halo effect. The only trim was a velvet grape-toned band which ended in two long streamers reaching to the end of her train. Her gloves and shoes matched the hat band in color, and she carried a bouquet of tinted African daisies in an arm bouquet and tied with peach colored ribbon.

Charles Mainland of Hammond, Ind., was the best man, and the guests were seated by Russell Coulter of Martel, and Luther Still of Upper Sandusky.

Following the ceremony Miss Slack sang "Through the Years," in observance of the thirty-sixth wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.

Reception In Ballroom

A reception for 100 guests in the presidential suite followed the ceremony in the ballroom. Mrs. Lee wore a gown of blue chiffon with blue silk lace and her accessories were in white, and the bridegroom's mother was in light green chiffon. Both wore shoulder corsages of gardenias. Assisting in receiving the guests were Miss Florence Keeler and Miss Edith Rupp of Columbus, and serving were Miss Grace Foster and Miss Lida Thompson of Columbus. The table was centered with a decorated wedding cake.

The bride's gift to her attendant was a pearl cross on a gold chain, and Mr. Laymon's gift to his best man was a leather pocket secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Laymon will spend their honeymoon in Michigan and later will go to Chicago where they will attend a convention of representatives of the Autopoint Company of Chicago, with which Mr. Laymon is associated as district sales manager. They will make their home in Pittsburgh, where Mr. Laymon makes his headquarters.

For traveling the bride wore a hand embroidered organdy frock over a taffeta slip and white accessories. Her corsage was gardenias.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAND

(c) 1937, Marie de Nervand)

SYNOPSIS: Just as Ted Gaynor is desperately about to set a forest fire to get a job, Kay Crandon stops him. Likes his looks, gives him a place at the Lazy Nine. When her ranch house and barn burn, Josh Hastings, who wants to buy the Lazy Nine and marry Kay, invites her to the Flying Six. She refuses, distrusting him, but young sister Babs and Aunt Kate go. Ted tells Kay Hastings is "a snake." The insurance money, which Kay planned to use for rebuilding, has to go on the mortgage. It's a blow, but Kay answers when Ted offers the outfit to cut its own lumber and rebuild without pay.

CHAPTER ELEVEN
Kay Talks Too Freely

KAY held Ted back as the others entered the mess shack.

"I brought you this," she said, suddenly shy at the look in his eyes as he gazed inquiringly at her. She unbuckled a cartridge-studded belt with a swinging gun, and handed it to him.

"You said you'd sold yours," she explained simply. "This was one of Dad's. I'd like to have you have it."

A quickness came into Ted's voice as he tried to thank her, but she hurried in without waiting for him to voice his feelings.

By the time Kay got back to her own, the bitter blow of the morning seemed nothing more than a joke. It would be a great relief to have the $10,000 insurance money paid off on the mortgage, and she'd have her house and barn into the bargain.

A sudden impulse decided her to go over and tell Aunt Kate and Babs about it, and she turned down to the corral to get Flicker.

"Won't Josh Hastings be mad, Flicks?" she gloated, with a triumphant laugh. "If he did have anything to do with the fire, he's had his trouble for nothing."

Planning how she could arrange to get Aunt Kate and Babs home as soon as possible so as not to be under any greater obligation than she could help to Josh Hastings, Kay decided to get the boys to throw up an addition to her cabin the first things so that they could all fit into it, while the building was going on.

Ted Gaynor had gone off right after lunch, and was planning to bring his mother and sister back within two or three days.

"It'll be no end of fun, Flicks," she murmured, with sparkling eyes and a heightened color as her mind dwelt on Ted Gaynor. "We'll all be regular pioneers, and live just as they did in the early days."

Her mind full of schemes and plans for the future, Kay covered the 10 miles to the Flying Six in what seemed no time at all, and came trotting up to the ranch house to find Aunt Kate dozing on the porch in the sunshine.

"There's a Fine Man!"

"Hello there!"

Aunt Kate awoke with a start at Kay's call.

"Well, it's about time you were coming over to see how I was getting on," she grumbled, but the affectionate welcome in her eyes belied her querulous greeting. "Come up here and given an account of yourself."

Kay dismounted and ran up the steps, looking about with an investigating eye to see if there were any signs of Josh Hastings. She was torn between the hope of getting away without seeing him, and the mischievous desire to flaunt her new plan before him.

"I suppose Babs isn't home from school yet," Kay observed, as she kissed her aunt. "I was so upset last night that I'm afraid I didn't give you a very cordial welcome," she added apologetically.

"Made me feel about as welcome as a pole cat!" Aunt Kate was never one to mince words. "But I don't hold it up against you, considerin' the circumstances. Luckily Josh Hastings did the welcomin' for you. There's a fine man for you!" She shot Kay a quick shrewd look out of her bright black eyes.

"It was good of him to step into the breach the way he did," Kay answered evasively. "Is he back from town yet?"

"How'd you know he went to town?"

Before Kay had a chance to answer, a deep bass "Hello!" sounded from the direction of the corral, and the next minute Josh Hastings rounded the corner of the porch.

"Hello, there!" There was nothing in his greeting to indicate whether he had overheard Kay's tirade against him. He came up on the porch and held out his hand, which Kay was reluctantly forced to take. "You were sure in a hurry the last time I saw you," he added. "Find some bad news?"

"It seemed like mighty bad news then," Kay answered, "but now I see it in a different light. It's opened up all sorts of possibilities."

"Sensible girl," he commented. "So you've come over about the offer I made? Well, I'm standing right behind it."

"Oh, no," Kay answered sweetly. "I've no more intention of selling than I ever had. I just came over to see Aunt Kate."

There was a moment's pause. As Kay glanced innocently up at him, she could see the natural flush in his face deepen. That was the only evidence of surprise he gave, but his blue eyes narrowed.

"No intention of selling, eh?" he echoed. "Just how are you planning to rebuild, without your insurance?"

"The same way the pioneers did," Kay answered easily, thoroughly enjoying herself. "There're plenty of trees to get lumber from, and we've plenty of labor to do the job."

"Who put that scheme in your head?" he demanded brusquely, cutting short Aunt Kate's exclamation of surprise. "I never heard anything so crazy!"

A shade of doubt crept into Aunt Kate's look of interest at this sweeping disapproval of Kay's plans.

"I hope it isn't crazy," Kay answered, with exasperating calmness. "None of us think it is. But anyway we're going to try it."

"The whole idea's as wild as a locoed coyote!" He turned to Aunt Kate. "Can't you stop Kay from throwing away what little money she has on such a crazy plan?"

Aunt Kate looked from one to the other, her eyes squinted in her wrinkled face. "I don't quite make out what it's all about."

"It boils down to this," Josh Hastings broke in impatiently without giving Kay a chance to answer. "The insurance money has to go toward paying off the mortgage, so Kay has nothing to rebuild with. I've made her a generous cash offer to take the whole ranch off her hands, so that she'll have a neat little nest egg to live on instead of ruining herself and losing the ranch into the bargain. And here she comes across with a wild-cat scheme to rebuild without any money."

"That does seem kind of foolish," Aunt Kate agreed. "You'd better not be so hasty, Kay."

"Plenty Of Trees, Eh!"

"There's really nothing to discuss," Kay tried to keep her temper at this unfair attempt of Josh Hastings to win Aunt Kate over to his side. "It's all decided. The first thing I'm going to do is to build an addition to the cabin, so you and Babs can come home." She turned to Aunt Kate, who looked none too pleased.

"Don't you agree to any such thing, Miss Crandon." Hastings swung abruptly from Kay to Aunt Kate. "You stay right here until Kay comes to her senses." He paused, and stared reflectively into the distance. "Plenty of trees, are there?" he murmured half to himself, fixing Kay with his cold blue stare. "Just where are all these trees of yours?"

Kay was aware of a sudden gone feeling in the pit of her stomach. What a fool she'd been to talk so much until she'd made sure of those few acres of timber on Old Man Warren's ridge! Trying hard to make her voice casual, she sought to undo her indiscretion.

"There's a lot of timber back of our north range," she answered vaguely, adding with spirited sarcasm in the hope of diverting his mind from its present train of thought, "We haven't begun to cut yet, naturally!"

"Some haul you'll have from the north range," Hastings observed with satisfaction. "And I can't seem to remember much big timber up that direction anyway." He gave a shrewd chuckle and added tolerantly, "Well, I reckon you'll have to make a try at it, before you'll be satisfied."

Kay's premonition of trouble, instead of being dispelled by this change of attitude was greatly strengthened. There wasn't a minute to waste! She must go in to Old Man Warren at once and get an option on that land! Even though she hadn't mentioned her intention to buy that up, Josh Hastings could easily reason it out for himself that that was the only available timberland for her to get.

She slipped down from the porch rail, where she had been perched beside Aunt Kate. "I'm afraid I can't wait for Babs to get home from school." It was all she could do to keep her voice calm and unhurried. "I promised I'd be right back."

"Got to get started cutting down that timebr?" It was Josh Hastings' turn to be sarcastic.

"Not quite yet." Kay's effort at an easy laugh wasn't any too successful, as she bent down to kiss Aunt Kate. "There's no such terrible rush." She hoped he couldn't hear the pounding of her heart which drummed in her own ears. She must get away now, at once, and get hold of Old Man Warren before it occurred to Hastings to try to block her!

"Wait a minute," Josh Hastings put a detaining hand on her arm.

Racing to Old Man Warren's tomorrow, Kay is intercepted.

Get Gas Refrigeration When You Need It Most

—Long recognized for dependably safeguarding food and freezing an abundant supply of ice cubes, the new 1937 Electrolux gas refrigerator is stepped up in efficiency—does the job 13 per cent faster than ever before. The gas refrigerator is increasingly popular in the South where demands upon it certainly are greater than are made by Ohio's climate. Besides dependable refrigeration, the Electrolux offers silence, NO moving parts to wear out, and the lowest operating cost. See the gas refrigerator at The Gas Company and inquire how you can own one by paying only a few cents a day.

Oh, Words, Come Back!

Two weeks ago some of his Pennsylvania friends still talked about Gov. Earle as a presidential contender. They thought Gov. Earle was pretty fair timber. Then came the Johnstown flood—his steel strike fiasco and its attendaint deluge of condemnation, sealing the governor's political oblivion.

His hopes shattered, he raised his voice from the valley of despair and cried: "Mr. Roosevelt, oh Mr. Roosevelt, I hope you get a third term."

He said more than that. He said there were no other men in the country "who reach knee high in stature, mentally and morally, to Franklin D. Roosevelt." Himself, presumably, included.

The "third term boom," three years and five months ahead of election, was not Mr. Roosevelt's idea. Mr. Roosevelt would have timed it better.

It may take Gov. Earle quite a while to live down his "knee-high" estimate of his own stature.

The Worst.

There's little to say about the conviction of Ellis Parker and his son, except that it adds another grisly chapter to the tragic story of the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

The story began with a bestial act. It continued in the same sordid tone, from the mishandling of the investigation, through discovery of the child's body, to the arrest and conviction of Bruno Hauptmann in an atmosphere which made justice seem unlikely, if not impossible.

The kindest thing which can be said about the Parkers, who evidently were prepared to sacrifice an innocent man to their desire for applause, is that they were weak schemers subjected to powerful forces which quickly carried them beyond their depth. When that happened, they lacked strength of character to save themselves.

There are situations which bring out the worst in men, just as there are situations which inspire them to seem heroic. As the Parkers join the procession of those who have trudged away from the Lindbergh case in disgrace, it seems again that this must have been the most disgraceful, the most unfortunate, event affecting men's faith in each other which this generation will see.

Yowp, Yowp.

Talking dogs are rare. What little they have to say isn't intelligent anyway.

In behalf of dogs that can't talk—in behalf of all dogs—a suggestion is offered to that society of animal lovers in New York City which says all dogs should be banished from the metropolis to the country.

Here's the suggestion:

Pretend you're a dog. You're living in the city, looking out windows at traffic, going for a walk every day, eating regular meals, not working very hard and, every once in a while, going to the park or maybe even to the country for a good romp.

Would you want to move to the country, where there's nothing much to look at, a lot of hard work to be done and where the general idea of a big time is to drive into town? If you do then quit pretending you're an abused city dog and move, right away, while there's still time to get in some late vegetables.

Dogs don't seem to mind living in the city nearly so much as their well meaning loo-legged friends seem to mind it for them. They must wonder, in their mute way, why the uplifters hang around town, if it's so terrible.

No Objection Is Heard.

No objection is heard to the unofficial motion that congress take its cue from Vice President Garner and leave Washington.

The significant thing about Mr. Garner's departure was the immediate and universal agreement that he had the right idea—a bit unorthodox, of course, but still the right idea.

Congress is stalled. It never has been in motion, though it has been in session since early last January. It has accomplished almost nothing in the way of constructive legislation in almost six months.

The proposals now before it, though important, are not ready for action. Furthermore, under the circumstances, preparation for action seems out of the question. Experience has shown there is small reason to expect congress to tend to business during July and August. In a government of men, the limitations of men must be recognized.

The only way the administration could get action would be by jamming its measures through congress and that, under the circumstances, doesn't seem like the thing to do. The majority party already is chafing under strained relations.

What all this amounts to is a kind of universal feeling that it's time to pick up and go home—the same kind of feeling which prompts the guests at a party, when there's a lull in the festivities, to look at their watches, yawn and conclude, "Well, it's about time we were going."

In this case, there's a good example to follow. Mr. Garner has been catching fish for a week now.

Beginners at Bargaining

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

IT WOULD be ever so much easier if one could say with a good conscience that Mr. Girdler or Mr. Lewis is our man, and that some simple principle, such as the right to bargain collectively or the right to work, is the fundamental issue in the struggle. But I believe that we deceive ourselves when we take this view, and that such self-deception can lead to no useful results.

The major centers of the disturbance are the unorganized mass production industries of America. There is much industrial unrest elsewhere but in the main it may be said that this is the unrest which generally accompanies recovery from depression, though it is accentuated here and there by the prevailing distemper. The really serious trouble is in those industries which have until recently refused to recognize and to deal with independent unions.

The trouble we are witnessing arises out of the attempt to organize these hitherto unorganized industries, and the reason why there is so much confusion and disorder is that very few men in these industries—in the management or among the workers—or among public officials, have had anything like adequate experience in operating a system of collective bargaining. The condition of these industries in respect to labor relations is very much like that which prevails in a politically backward state where neither the voters nor the public officials understand constitutional government or have acquired the habits of mind and character needed to make such a government work.

More Recruits Than Leaders

On the side of the workers it is manifest that the CIO unions have suddenly acquired many more members than they have officers to lead them. Their situation and their behavior is like that of an army which has been deluged with enthusiastic recruits long before it has had time to train enough top sergeants and captains who can train the recruits. It takes time and experience to develop trade union officials, not merely the men whose names appear in headlines but the actual leaders of the rank and file inside the plants.

Naturally, a mass movement of this sort under improvised leaders, lacking traditions, discipline, and that sense of responsibility which can be acquired only by exercising responsibility, will be unruly. To belong to a union is a new experience for virtually all the workers in these industries, and there are not enough men available, not enough sober men whom they have learned to trust, to tell them what they can do and what they cannot do.

They would be helped greatly if men like Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Murphy, and Mr. Earle loved them not so much but more wisely. For what these workers need most of all in their difficult apprenticeship in labor unionism is the sense that their friends are good enough friends to have the courage and the prudence to restrain their excesses. The movement led by the CIO badly needs to be slowed down for its own good. In no other way can it hope to have the time to learn this new art of collective bargaining.

And if the President is a real friend of labor, not merely one of those romantic upper class amateurs who mislead the labor movement by condoning and idealizing its vices, he will make these raw workers feel that his influence is not merely friendly but that it is firm and restraining as well.

On the side of management much the same condition prevails. Very few of the great captains of industry, and very few of their subordinates down to the foremen, have ever had real experience in collective bargaining. On the contrary, they have a tradition reaching back to pioneer days that collective bargaining with labor unions is inherently evil, at most something to be accepted as a necessary evil.

Closer Association Needed

How many captains of industry know personally the leaders of labor as they know their competitors, their customers, their bankers, their lawyers? Very few, Mr. Girdler has never even met Mr. Lewis. Has he ever met Mr. Green? I do not know whether he has or not but I do know that no one can make wise decisions and conduct large affairs effectively who will not take the trouble to become thoroughly acquainted with the men who, whether he likes them or not, are important in the world he lives in. We talk a lot about class feeling these days, and no one deplores it more than I do. But in all fairness let us have the common sense to recognize that when employers fail to establish a personal relationship with the leaders of labor, when they hold them at arms length and talk about not "recognizing" them, they doing much to create that very class feeling which they fear.

If we are not to have class division in America, then the quicker the employers remove the class barriers, and begin to acquire the habit of taking lunch with labor leaders and of going to the movies with them, the better for all concerned. For collective bargaining is not something which can be made to work by formal statements drawn up by lawyers and press agents. It requires that continuing and developing human relationship through which alone men with different interests learn to lay aside their suspicions and learn to trust one another.

That, it seems to me, is what the wiser business men ought at this time to be telling their more excitable and bellicose colleagues. For the employers, like the newly organized workers, are in desperate need of discipline and of education. They are in a situation they have never been trained to deal with and they are finding, as Samuel Butler once said, that "Life is like playing a violin solo in public and learning the instrument as one goes on."

Buckeye Ghost Town

THE "SLOPE" is a Buckeye state "ghost town" that has never died.

There are many "deserted villages" scattered statewide that boomed and then died when some industry failed.

But the "Slope" isn't that kind of town. Its industry has been long dead, but the little community that should have died at the same time lived on—and thrived.

The "Slope" is in Trumbull county, just across the state line from the Shenango Valley steel mills at Sharon, Pa. Its supporting industry at one time fed the maws of the Sharon steel mill furnaces — the "Slope" had been a thriving coal mining town.

The mine 60 years ago gave employment to 200 men and kept the Sharon furnaces hot. But those furnaces proved to be gorging coal-gluttons disastrous to the tiny mining town, for they ate up the "Slope's" entire coal vein. The mine's workings soon caved in, the shaft collapsed and was covered with dirt.

Yet today the "Slope" thrives. The lawns are green, the flowers bloom and the tiny cottages nestling against the hillsides are freshly painted.

There is a reason for this continued survival—the people.

They are sturdy Welshmen—as rugged as the hills they live on.

Their "never-die" town is a bit of Wales transplanted to Ohio.

There are five veterans that live to tell of the old Brookfield Slope and the Buhl Colliery. Ranging in years from 75 to 90, they are still active despite their years spent swinging picks in the damp underground tunnels.

The men are William R. Williams, 90; Henry Hacker, 80; Benjamin Broad, 82; John J. Davis, 78, and his brother, R. H. Davis, 75.

These men mined "Ohio block coal" found in seams and slips. This vein is rare in Ohio and is particularly adaptable as steam coal.

"Coal mining now is pretty much a picnic compared with our work at 'Slope' 60 years ago," Williams said.

"All we had then was a pick and shovel. Today, they have electric cutting machines, mine trolleys and electricity in the working rooms."

Average pay, the veterans pointed out, was $25 to $30 in two weeks. Production figures at the Buhl did not run into big figures. A good day's work averaged 350 tons.

The five old miners can give no explanation for their long and healthy lives. They merely point out that the "Slope" existence was a quiet one, devoid of high-pressure amusements.

Why didn't the town die with the mine? The miners answer that question. They like it.

And as to the question of why the mine suspended operations—they answer that also.

"When there isn't any coal in a coal mine, there isn't any use in a coal miner mining!"

They had mined all the coal the company owned.

Sun Spots Again

BY DICK EMMONS

ANOTHER of the astronomers' theories has been confirmed. A hundred years ago a scientist stated that there might be some connection between the state of our weather and the "spots" on the sun. These spots appear as tiny blotches on the sun's otherwise clear disc. They increase and decrease in periods of 10 and 11 years. They are known to be great whirlpools, or maelstroms, of dark gases. Since the maximum number of these spots is due this summer the astronomer has been carefully noting the weather conditions. The severe electrical storms of the past few weeks have proved beyond doubt that there is a connection between those storms on the surface of the sun, 93 million miles away, and our weather.

In 1932, days and weeks passed without a spot on the sun of noticeable size. Now there are as many as 40 at one time, most of them larger than our earth. Some days spots appear that are so large, 40,000 miles across, that they may be seen with the naked eye. Smoked glass is useful in making these observations.

The first effect of the approaching maximum in sun spot activity was noticed the night of April 28 when a marvelous display of the "northern lights" occurred. According to Dr. Bobrovnikoff of Ohio Wesleyan university, this display was caused by a great sun spot which on that day passed the central line on the sun's disc. Scientists theorize that by their state of agitation these spots emit electrical waves that rearrange the earth's magnetic field, causing the "northern lights," and storms of wind and lightning.

The President's Responsibility

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1937, By The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, June 28—President Roosevelt is charged by the federal constitution with the obligation to execute faithfully the laws of the United States and among them is the law of 1890 which forbids anybody to conspire with anybody else to restrain interspring commerce.

Ever since the day the supreme court of the United States handed down its decision upholding the Wagner labor law, this correspondent has contended that the federal government had the power to prosecute the prime movers in a "sit-down" strike and anybody else who undertakes to interfere with the shipment of goods in interstate commerce.

Now comes in corroboration a unanimous opinion by the United States circuit court of appeals for the Third circuit, which, while in no way mentioning the duties of a President of the United States, clearly establishes the lawlessness of the "sit-down" strike as well as lawless picketing or interference with the operations of industrial plants engaged in interstate commerce.

This decision was handed down last week, but the full text of it did not come to my attention until today. A reading of the decision shows that there is federal power to prosecute the conspirators who have endeavored to close down the steel plants and other companies through lawless methods.

The opinion was rendered by a three-judge court, namely by Justices Buffington, Davis and Dickinson. It is interesting to note that Judge Davis, who wrote the opinion, was appointed to the bench by President Wilson and before that was a United States attorney and prior to that appointment was a state senator and Democratic leader in the New Jersey state senate.

Hosiery Strike Example

First describing the lawlessness that was suddenly introduced in and around the Apex hosiery plant, where peaceful conditions had always prevailed, Judge Davis then said:

"If there had been a strike or any labor trouble at the plaintiff's factory, the law provides a remedy for its peaceful settlement. The main purpose of the Wagner act was to avoid industrial strife by providing an orderly process of settling controversies and causes of unrest. It defines and declares the rights of labor and provides machinery for enforcing them.

"Underlying this case is the question of whether a few lawless individuals, ignoring and contemning the Wagner act and in defiance of all law and order, and in ruthless disregard of the rights of others, should be permitted by assuming the name of a union to deprive all others of their means of livelihood and compel them to contribute of their earnings to self-styled leaders.

"A few 'sit-downers' are keeping 2,500 persons, who were entirely satisfied with their positions, from working and from earning an honest living for themselves and their families. If an employer had denied to labor any of its rights, the Wagner act provided an orderly way of calling him to account. Instead of resorting to this act, the defendants by force and violence sought to compel the employer and its employees to do what the Wagner act does not countenance and what the judgment of every true friend of labor and of all good men condemns as wrong both in policy and principle.

"Public opinion will sympathize with labor in using every fair, just and legal means to secure and protect its rights, but public opinion—and this includes the sane, sober, thoughtful and law-abiding element of labor—will feel outraged at the lawless conduct of the defendants which, if tolerated, would strike down American

Starting as "the" reporter on his home town paper in Alexis, Ill., Hunt, known to the fraternity as "Spike," has been a war correspondent in London, almost every capital of Europe and the Far East. Measure Makes Suits Costly

Norris Finds Way To Halt Injunctions.

BY PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, June 28—Litigation usually is a wearying proposition to the casual spectator but if any develops under Senator Norris' bill to create seven TVAs it won't be litigation in the usual sense. It will be a convention.

Norris dislikes injunction proceedings such as have marched in columns of foure to delay progress of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Under his new bill he proposes to make them costly so as to bar all mighty few.

Feeding the Kitty

For instance, if officials or bondholders of a private power company fear the competition of a new government power authority is going to wreck their system, they may want to file an injunction suit to stop it.

All right, says the Norris bill, go ahead. But first put up a bond big enough to indemnify the government and the power authority for expense of any delays, or any loss suffered from delayed sale of power or water.

Moreover, any cooperative that wants to buy power, or any individual who might some time become a customer for federal power or water, or any person who thinks he might somehow be damaged by delay in construction or progress of the authority, is invited to come in. The power company's bond must be made big enough to cover any such claims.

Then, if the power company loses the suit, the bond becomes a kitty to be split up among all parties smart enough to come in with a plea of actual or potential loss.

Chances are the bill won't pass this session. Even Senator Norris is not too expectant of it. But he is persistence personified and if it doesn't get it this year he will try after it next.

No Fooling

Referring to a recent column with regard to Gilbertsville dam on the Tennessee river, Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the TVA board, wants it made clear he did not initiate the proposal that congress override the budget in authorizing immediate construction of the $112,000,000 dam.

That seems fair enough. He did not. That would have violated administrative orders prohibiting departments from going over the head of the budget director. As a matter of fact, Senator McKellar of Tennessee put the formal authorization before the appropriations committee and then passed the ball to Morgan. Morgan carried it through the line.

This column commented that congress didn't have its eyes fully open to the fact it was beginning a big dam without even TVA knowing exactly where it was to be located. Mr. Morgan says he didn't fool congress about it.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, June 28, 1927.

A huge tri-motored Fokker airplane, manned by Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, was the first to take off in the race of military and civilian pilots to be the first to span the Pacific from Oakland, Calif., to Hawaii.

Unmasked and brandishing guns, five bandits held up employes of the Commercial Savings bank at Galion and escaped with $65,000 in currency and bonds. E. H. Reed, cashier of the bank, and C. W. Tracht, his assistant, three of the bank employes and two customers were ordered by the bandits to lie on the floor while they scooped up the money. As soon as word of the robbery reached Marion, Police Chief J. W. Thompson and Sheriff James A. Deal organized searching parties to cover this section.

Assistant Attorney General Gilbert E. Mouser, Jr., former Marion city solicitor, made plans in Columbus to ask the state utilities commission to fix dates for resuming the hearing on protest of 38 Ohio municipalities against the rate schedule filed by the Logan Gas Co.

An East Fairground street mob was arrested as police opened a drive on fireworks vendors in an effort to keep the city's July 4th Fourth celebration safe and sane.

AUTOS DAMAGED IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

List of Minor Mishaps Reported to Marion Police.

Cars driven by Henry Sullivan of 224 Patterson street and T. L. Rogers of Alliance collided on West Center street in the uptown section Saturday about 11:30 a. m., according to a police report. Rogers was eastbound and Sullivan was backing from the curb. Only minor damage was reported.

An automobile driven by Robert Richmond of 414 Delaware avenue collided with a parked automobile near 234 North State street, Saturday about 11:30 p. m., according to a police report. The left front fender of the parked car was slightly damaged. Police did not learn the name of the owner of the parked automobile.

Wayne Newman of Marion reported to police that his car and another sideswiped on state route 23 near Little Sandusky at 2:10 a. m. Sunday. He told police he was driving north and that the other car's left front fender apparently struck the left rear fender of his automobile. He did not learn the name of the other driver, who did not stop after the collision, Newman told police.

C. P. Thibaut of 445 Cherry street reported that while driving south on Main street, in the uptown section, Sunday at 11:30 p. m. a car which pulled from the curb collided with his automobile. The right front fender of Thibaut's car was damaged. He did not learn the name of the other driver.

VETERANS PLAN PARTY

Members of Marion Chapter No. 22, Disabled American Veterans, will hold a stag party Tuesday night at 7:30 on Dana Daniels' farm, about a mile south of Newman's on route 4. All members are urged to attend and to bring a prospective member. Refreshments and entertainment are being planned by a committee consisting of Jewell Ralston, E. K. Reed and William Willis.

SERIOUSLY ILL

Miss Martha Sams is reported to be seriously ill at the home of her niece Margaret Knickle Kimberling of 342 Pearl street.

PAGEANT DRAMA GIVEN AT CHURCH

A large crowd attended a pageant-drama, "The Lost Church," presented last night at the Trinity Baptist church by young people of the church. Mrs. Lewis Wills directed the play and was at the piano for the musical portion, which was played by the Sunday school orchestra, directed by George Barnhart.

The drama was presented in accordance with a custom of the church of having some entertainment by the young people on the last Sunday night in June. It was presented in three scenes and a tableau, with George Wingett as tenor soloist for the incidental music.

MARION LODGEMEN WIN RECOGNITION

Quartet Wins State Contest; Lehner and Abel Accorded Honors.

A Marion man, George J. Lehner, director of District No. 14, was named a district delegate to the national convention at Chicago in August, and the Buckeye Aerie quartet, national champion singing group, gathered new laurels by winning the state championship at the closing sessions of the annual state convention of Eagles at Cleveland, Sunday.

John A. Abel, secretary of Buckeye Aerie No. 337, and a past president of the state organization, was honored by being chosen as the installing officer when the newly-elected officers were elevated to their stations at the closing business session Sunday morning.

The quartet, which is composed of John P. McAndrew, A. A. Ward, N. G. Irvin and Howard Orr, with Paul Molloy as accompanist, sang in competition with quartets from the Akron and Ironton aeries at the Great Lakes exposition grounds yesterday afternoon in a radio program broadcast over a national hook-up from the exposition grounds. The winner was selected by the audience in the auditorium at the grounds. The group will defend its championship title at the national convention in Chicago.

HITLER STAND SNAGS WAR ISOLATION PLAN

He also declared Germany would act independently henceforth to protect herself against Spanish government attacks at sea.

STATE RESTS CASE IN IRONTON TRIAL

LOCAL GUARDSMAN TELLS OF DUTY IN STRIKE ZONE

A. E. Amick, Home on Brief Leave, Relates Experiences of Marion Men in Youngstown Area.

A story of how Marion's 69 National Guardsmen in the steel strike area around Youngstown have been living since they were called on duty last Tuesday morning was brought to Marion today by Arthur E. Amick, staff sergeant of Headquarters Co., one of the two Marion guard units. Amick came to Marion last night on a 15-hour leave to attend to business matters and will return to Youngstown tonight.

The Marion men have been on "watchful waiting" duty since they arrived in Youngstown and have been living comfortably, but surrounded by strict rules of army discipline, Amick said.

Until Saturday, all Marion guardsmen were among 500 stationed at Memorial High school, a building much larger than Harding High school here, located in Campbell, a suburb of Youngstown and near the main plant of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Amick said. Arrival of newe troops from Cleveland and reassignment of units resulted in D Co. of Marion being shifted Saturday to Struthers, another Youngstown suburb, he said. Headquarters company remains at Campbell.

Amick said the guardsmen received a cordial welcome from residents of the vicinity and from the workers, who greet the guardsmen as they go to and from their work.

The guardsmen, he said, have set up elaborate preparations for any possible development. Communication wires are laid all over the area. Troops are stationed at the various gates of the mills, and the force is doubled when it is time for one shift of workers to leave the plants and for another to come in.

Handles Communications

Headquarters company is concerned with communications, handling of orders, records and work around the headquarters, while D company men were among those who have been seeing patrol service, Amick said. For the most part the men work on six-hour shifts and patrol gates or other points to which they are assigned. When not patrolling, they are at the school building. Rules permit two-hour passes to leave the school but the quota only permits one or two Marion men to leave at one time, Amick said. Even then the guardsmen's uniform must be proper and he must abide by strict rules of conduct.

However, there is little occasion to leave the school except for a change of scenery, Amick continued. Field ranges have been set up in the basement to cook for the 500 men at the Memorial High school and the food is good and plentiful, he said. The ticks carried by the guardsmen have been filled with straw and laid out in the school gymnasium into comfortable sleeping quarters. Candy, cigarets, socks and other merchandise is available at a canteen set up in the school. There are checker boards and card games to help pass away hours through which the guradsmen, although not required to be active, must be ready to go at a moment's notice.

Amick said the units frequently get "stand by" orders instructing them to be fully dressed and prepared for action and ready for instant call. Should a call come in during such a period, the guardsmen would be able to pour out of the headquarters in trucks, equipped for action, with speed rivalling firemen's, he said.

As yet, the Marion guardsmen have not been engaged in any skirmishes, Amick said.

Return Is Uncertain

When the Marion men will be able to return home is uncertain. It is believed they will be required to remain on duty for some time, and guardsmen are wondering if they won't have to stay on strike duty until July 18 when Marion guardsmen are to go to Camp Perry for federal camp training. Barring emergency conditions, the Marion men would be relieved of strike duty to go to camp from July 15 to Aug. 1.

Headquarters Co. of Marion has a communications section, and Marion guardsmen are taking a hand in the elaborate communications setup in the strike area. The territory for which the Memorial High school is headquarters requires approximately two hours of truck driving to encircle, and the entire area is wired. If an ambitious spy were to tap the wires, he wouldn't learn much because the communications are handled largely in code.

Airplanes on observation duty fly over the strike area and can communicate with the headquarters by radio. In addition to planes and the guardsmen stationed at the various gates and strategic points, there are patrol units that frequently cruise around for general observation service.

The headquarters in Memorial High school are only one and one-half blocks from the steel plant.

Families of Marion men in the strike area have been receiving letters telling of their experiences, most of them describing the day's routine, an Amick told of it.

First Sgt. Clark J. Farley of D Co., in a letter to Mrs. Farley, told of the transfer of that company from Campbell to Elm Street school in Struthers Saturday night. A number of relatives of guardsmen reported receiving cards and letters telling they had "arrived o. k. and getting along fine."

COBB ORDERS LEGION NEUTRAL IN STRIKES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 28—Sam H. Cobb of Columbus, commander of the Ohio department of the American Legion, ordered posts of that organization in various strike centers today to maintain a "hands off" policy in all labor controveries.

Commander Cobb said he had received suggestions that the Legion take a hand in attempting to settle various disputes, and in reply he sent the following message to heads of the state's posts:

RETAIL STORES NEXT IN WAGE CAMPAIGN

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 28—Coincident with the announcement today that a survey of wage conditions in beauty shops would follow action bringing retail stores under the code, Miss Eleane Sheffler, chief of the Ohio minimum wage division, said $10,411 in back wages had been collected for employes.

In the restaurant business, $2,855 in back wages has been collected; in dry cleaning, $4,338; and laundries, $3,118, Miss Sheffler said.

Sixteen cases have been brought into court since the first of the year and 14 previously had been tried. The minimum wage division has won every case, Miss Sheffler said. Some of the employers were fined but in most instances fines were suspended on condition that back wages be paid immediately.

SENATORS WIND UP STRIKE INQUIRY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 28—The senate postoffice committee voted 12 to 1 today to end its investigation of the mid-western steel strikes without further hearings, or testimony by Postmaster General Farley.

By a vote of 12 to 3 it rejected a plea by Sen. Bridges, Republican of New Hampshire, that Farley be summoned for questioning about alleged interference with the mails by pickets.

LAWRENCE DISCUSSES PRESIDENT'S DUTY

institutions, flout out long cherished principles of even-handed justice and destroy the foundations of the government itself."

Cites Steel Case

Then Judge Davis proceeded to cite the supreme court decision in the Jones & Laughlin case, commonly known as the case that upheld the Wagner act, and he repeated the language of Chief Justice Hughes as follows:

"When the intent of those unlawfully preventing the manufacture or production is shown to be to restrain or control the supply entering and moving in interstate commerce....their action is a direct violation of the anti-trust act. And the existence of that intent may be a necessary inference from proof of the direct and substantial effect produced by the employee's conduct."

Judge Davis continued to show the parallel, declaring with respect to the "sit-down" strikers in the Apex plant:

"The defendants in effect argue that the purpose of the conspiracy here was not aimed at interstate commerce but at the plaintiff, to compel it to yield to their demand for a closed shop and check-off; that, however unlawful their acts were, they were incidental, only a means to an end, and do not constitute a conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce.

"This argument overlooks the fact that a strike if lawfully conducted is in itself lawful and its lawfulness now has statutory recognition. There could be no conspiracy under the sherman act or otherwise because of doing a lawful thing. It could not become a conspiracy unless the means employed were unlawful.

"It may be that the ultimate intent of the conspirators in this case was to force the plaintiff to sign an agreement for a closed shop. This would be perfectly all right if the defendants had used lawful means to bring it about, but when they used unlawful means—the commission of crimes and the restraint of interstate commerce — they knew exactly what they were doing and must have intended, as rational beings, to do exactly what they did. The ultimate object which they had in view in no way exculpates them from the violation of the Sherman act.....

"The defendants knew full well that the silk and cotton used in making hosiery came from outside of Pennsylvania. They also knew that when they seized and stopped the operations in that factory and refused to allow $600,000 worth of finished hosiery to be sent to the purchasers, they were restraining trade and the free flow of interstate commerce. This was a necessary and direct consequence of their acts and they must be held to have intended it."

Basis for Suits

The foregoing not only lays the basis for the recovery of triple damages in a civil suit if the employers wish to pursue the matter in the federal courts but it furnishes a prima facie case for the President of the United States and the attorney general to institute prosecutions for violations of the June, 1934, statute relating to the use of force to induce an agreement in any matter affecting interstate commerce.

This statute places the discretion as to prosecutions solely in the hands of the attorney general and it specifically conserves the "rights of bona-fide labor organizations in lawfully carrying out the legitimate objects thereof, as such rights are expressed in existing statutes of the United States."

Here, however, is a unanimous opinion by a United States circuit court of appeals that force and violence were used to induce the signing of an agreement and to interfere and restrain interstate commerce. Will the President and the attorney general now make an example of "sit-down" strikers and ask for indictments as required by the 1934 statute?

4 BIG DAYS STARTING TODAY

OHIO THEATRE

DELEGATION BACK FROM ENCAMPMENT

Representatives of the Marion Post No. 3513 of Veterans of Foreign Wars and the auxiliary returned last night after the closing session of the four-day meeting of the organization's 17th annual encampment at Toledo. Memorial services and drum and bugle corps competition featured yesterday's program.

Among representatives of the Marion post and auxiliary who attended the encampment are L. W. Miller, commander, Mrs. J. E. Morrison commander of the auxiliary, Samuel Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Norval Foreman, John V. Ruth, J. E. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bowersock, Mrs. Laura Straw, Mrs. Delsia Baker, Mrs. Eveline Reynolds, Miss Dorothy Van Voorhis, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hurley and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Finley.

FIREMEN RESPOND TO TWO ALARMS

Firemen from stations No. 1 and 2 were called to the Ohio theater building at 6:20 o'clock Saturday night, when an alarm was turned in by a passerby who saw smoke coming out of the ventilating system. The smoke was caused by an overheated fan in the ventilation system on which mechanics were working at the time.

At 7:37 o'clock Saturday night, firemen were called to the home of John J. Fahey of 317 West Church street. Rubbish which was being burned in the furnace caused smoke to circulate throughout the house. Company No. 1 and 3 firemen answered the alarm. No damage was reported in either call.

MARION TEACHERS ATTEND MEETING

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Frew of 311 Bellefontaine avenue and Mr. and Mrs. J. Eugene Auld of 125 South Grand avenue were to leave today for Detroit to attend the annual convention of the National Education association. Sessions will close Thursday.

Mr. Frew is principal of the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school, Mr. Auld, a teacher at the Vernon Heights Junior High school, is a delegate from the Marion City Teachers' association.

MILK STOLEN

Two quarts of milk were taken from the front porch at the home of Mrs. Rosa Zelg at 326 Girard avenue, Sunday morning, according to a report to police.

Hubbell Wins Duel With Dean That Draws 38,719

Reds Beaten Twice by Bees; Cleveland Indians Split Double Bill With Athletics.

BY SID FEDER

You couldn't blame major league magnates if they peeked under second base or back of the scoreboard or some such place today in the hope of digging up a rivalry to match the Carl Hubbell-Dizzy Dean duel.

For, win, lose or draw between the Giants' southpaw ace and the Cardinals' great popper-offer, any time those two go to the post against each other, they pack 'em to the rafters.

To the moguls, it didn't matter so much that Hubbell topped Diz like a tent yesterday to take an 8-1 decision in the latest renewal of their pitching rivalry. What was more interesting to the front offices was the fact that 38,719 fans made it look like world series day in Sportsman's park for the battle.

That crowd, added to the full houses that saw their two previous tussles, made it more than 120,000 who have turned out for the three Dean-Hubbell clashes this year.

And while the various other magnates considered ways and means of giving a shot in the arm to some such drawing card on their own behalf, it might be well to recall at this time that a lot of "experting" faces are plenty red these days over the Hubbell progress. Old Squarepants, after winning 24 straight, bogged down badly recently, dropped four in a row and was belted out six times running.

Immediately the wolves were heard, and when Bill Terry continued sending him back time after time, there were any number of yelps that what Hubbell needed was lots of rest, not more work. But Terry and King Carl stuck to their guns, and Hubbell, never missing his regular turn, snapped back to form.

Achieved with the aid of two homers by Mel Ott, the win sent the Giants and cards into a virtual tie for second place in the National league.

TRAVIS, HUBKA TO WRESTLE TONIGHT

Tonight's wrestling matches set for the outdoor arena on Uncapher avenue, should give fans a taste of about everything in the books. For the two featured bouts, fans are offered one which should be anything but clean and scientific.

In the final for the program, Ted Travis of Hollywood, Calif., will clash with Joe Hubka of Dodge, Neb. The pair tangled last week and Hubka won, when Travis was disqualified for throwing Referee Red Moon from the ring.

Teddy Walters of Gallup, N. M., and Honey Boy Hackney of Atlanta, Ga., will clash in the other 90-minute bout. Neither needs an introduction to Marion fans, who well recall their recent bouts here and the clean style they rely on. In addition to the pair of featured one hour and one-half matches, a 20-minute preliminary completes the program. The card is scheduled to begin at 8:30 o'clock.

CROWD OF 700 SEES TEAM SPLIT TWIN BILL WITH TIFFIN

Manager Chappie Geygan Banished from Field After Argument Over Pitch.

BY CHARLES HOSTETLER

Before an enthusiastic home crowd of more than 700 spectators, Marion's Ohio State league baseball team yesterday afternoon shared honors in a twin bill at Lincoln park with the Tiffin Mud Hens, Marion dropping the first game 12 to 5, and winning the second, 3 to 2.

By splitting the doubleheader and winning over the Findlay Browns, 3 to 2, Saturday afternoon, Marion moved within two and one-half games of the league-leading Mansfield Red Six. Mansfield yesterday broke even in a pair of games with Findlay while Fremont and Fostoria also divided a doubleheader. Marion's game at Findlay, Saturday, was the only week-end activity in addition to the round of double-headers yesterday.

Several hundred fans wended their way into Lincoln park stadium yesterday before the first game got underway at 1:30. The initial contest was studded with base hits, Tiffin unloosed its big bats to club out 13 bingles off two Marion hurlers, Gene Morris, Moberly, Missouri's 20-year-old right-hander, started for Marion and completed four and two-thirds innings before being waved from the mound under a rain of base hits by the invading Hens.

Van Bergen Called

Bob Van Bergen, another right-hander, replaced Morris, with Tiffin leading 8 to 5, and except for being erratic in pitching to the first two batters to face him, turned in a good relief performance. Tiffin had opened the scoring with three runs in the initial inning and added two in the third, Marion knotting the count with a pair of tallies in the second and three in the fourth frame.

It was the fatal fifth inning that proved to be the Waterloo for Marion. With two singles and a double as the only hits, Tiffin managed to chase in seven runs with the aid of a Marion error, a wild pitch and two passes to first. The unsteadiness of the Marion team in the field was attributed by spectators to an incident which happened in the previous inning when the home team was at bat.

Karl Kauffman, centerfielder, was at the plate in the fourth with two out, two runs scored and one runner on base. Umpire Miller, behind the bat, called a strike a pitch which Kauffman asserted struck the dirt as it came across home plate. Kauffman protested and Manager Chapple Geygan heaped heated words on the flames by continuing the protest in none too gentle tones. The incident ended when Umpire Miller banished Geygan from the park for the remainder of the first game, Johnny Brich, pitcher, filled Geygan's spot at second base.

Called in Seventh

Both clubs played better baseball in the second game, which was called in the seventh inning by a pre-game agreement of the managers. Marion "Lefty" Spence, the hurler who was defeated in his first start here, 4 to 0, by Findlay before an opening day crowd, took the mound for the Geygnites. Spence hurled brilliant ball over the seven-inning route as did the opposing moundsman, Johnny Mandreger, another southpaw.

Marion's three tallies were bunched in the fourth inning.

ALL STARS DEFEAT UPPER SANDUSKY

Marion Team Wins Two Games Over Visiting Elks.

The Marion All Star Merchants softball aggregation swept through both ends of a doubleheader with the Upper Sandusky Elks team at Garfield park yesterday, winning the first game, 3 to 0, and the second, 6 to 1. The games were scheduled to be played at Upper Sandusky but were moved here because of high water which players reported completely inundated the Wyandot county diamond. The scores by innings follow:

Upper Sandusky	000 000 0	0	4	2
Marion	000 300 *	3	8	0

Larick and Paur; Millisor and Owen.

Upper Sandusky	100 000 0	1	5	3
Marion	011 100 *	6	7	0

Lilton and Bollek; B. Everly and Owen.

MILLIONS FOR MUG

For a $500 battered trophy dating back to 1870 and known as the America's cup, wealthy yachtsmen have spent millions. It has never left these shores, but T. O. M. Sopwith, above, wealthy British plane builder, this year is challenging for the Royal Yacht Squadron.

MARION TEAM TO PLAY TEN GAMES IN SEVEN DAYS

Idle today, Marion's Ohio State league baseball club, has 10 games on its home and road schedule in the next seven days. The team will be seen in action on the Lincoln park diamond only two days this week, Wednesday and in a contest tentatively set for Saturday.

The heavy work week for the Geynnites will begin tomorrow when Marion invades the home lot of the Fostoria Red Birds. Wednesday, as a special for home fans, the club will return here for a "half-holiday" doubleheader with Fostoria.

Marion will be at Mansfield, Thursday and Friday, opposing the loop-leading Red Sox, with the tentative program bringing the Sox to Lincoln park, Saturday afternoon. Marion's team will wind up its big week with a pair of doubleheaders away from home next Sunday and Monday.

* * *

Police protection was called in yesterday at Lincoln park to halt a clever method of making away with foul balls which went back over the stands. Several youngsters were being paid to retrieve the foul flips, but were stymied when another youngster picked them up and made a "get-away" on a bicycle. After the retrievers reported that the same youth had used the ruse to take three baseballs, the police were called upon to help. On his fourth attempt the boy on the bicycle was foiled by the law. It was discovered that the youth had cached the balls he had taken previously beneath an automobile, apparently to be taken home after the game.

* * *

Here's a bit of news that will be of interest to feminine baseball fans in Marion. Each Tuesday and Friday when the club is playing at Lincoln park, "Ladies Day," will be observed, officials of the ball club announced today. On any Tuesday or Friday when the Ohio State league team is in action here, all women are invited to be guests of the management.

* * *

Marion's lad boy, 13-year-old Bobby Thompson, son of R. R. Thompson, owner of the club yesterday, saw his first service with the team since it has played at Lincoln park. Bobby, who has been busy at his home in Toledo, hopes to spend the remainder of the summer at his father's farm, 10 miles south of Marion, so that he can keep in closer touch with the team. Wearing a complete uniform, young Thompson yesterday, was busy taking care of the bats and assisting in chasing down foul balls.

SHOVEL-BUCYRUS GAME CANCELLED

The Marion Steam Shovel A. A. baseball team's scheduled game with the Bucyrus Sozonian Vaults at Bucyrus yesterday was cancelled because of a wet playing field. The teams plan to meet later this season. In their first meeting here several weeks ago, Bucyrus triumphed, 9 to 5.

BILL TERRY PICKS NATIONAL LEAGUE'S ALL-STAR FORCES

Diz and Carl Hubbell Top Hurling Staff for July 7 Game at Washington.

BY ALAN GOULD

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 28—The All-Star squad with which the National League hopes to make it two straight over the American League at Washington, July 7, was announced today by Bill Terry, boss of the hand-picked forces as a result of leading his Giants to a pennant last year.

The squad of 22 players, selected by Terry after consultation with rival strategists, includes all the headliners and represent every league club but the Boston Bees.

Terry's own team tops the list with six delegates to the big show. The Chicago Cubs contribute five, the St. Louis Cardinals four, and the Pittsburgh Pirates three players.

The seven infielders named do not include a regular third baseman. Last year Pinky Whitney of the Phillies guarded the hot spot. Terry hasn't committed himself definitely yet, but the chances are he will assign the slugging Pirate shortstop, Arky Vaughan, to third, with Dick Bartell at short.

Dizzy Dean and Carlin Hubbell, quite naturally, top the hurling staff. Each has appeared in three of the four previous All-Star games.

Van Mungo, who has worked in one previous game, and three newcomers round out the pitching staff. Pittsburgh's Darrell (Cy) Blanto is the most likely "freshman" to see action.

Leo (Gabby) Hartnett of the Cubs is the only "four-star" nomination. He has been behind the bat in every All-Star game.

There's not much doubt that Johnny Mize of the Cardinals, another freshman selection, will start at first base, with Billy Herman of the Cubs in the keystone spot, for the fourth straight year. The starting outfield figures to consist of Joe (Muscles) Medwick, Frank Demaree and Paul Waner.

Terry named two managerial rivals, Frank Frisch of the Cardinals and Charlie Dressen of the Reds, as coaches. A new assignment, honorary coach, goes to Jesse Haines, dean of the National League pitchers.

Here are Terry's selections, with years of previous All-Star competitive appearances given in brackets:

MINNEAPOLIS BEATS COLUMBUS RED BIRDS TWICE; HENS IN LEAD

Millers Pound Macon and Potter for 10 Hits in First of Two Games.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 28—The slugging Minneapolis Millers and the scrappy Toledo Mud Hens opened a four-game series today which ultimately may decide the winner of this year's American Association title race.

The Hens, leading the second place Kels by a slight margin, had the advantage of their home field, but the manner in which Minneapolis wound up its series with the Red Birds at Columbus Sunday indicated the Millers are fully as dangerous on the road as they are at home. They swept both games of a double bill, winning the first 5 to 6, and the second, 7 to 1.

Minneapolis pounded the brilliant Max Macon and Nels Potter for 10 hits as Belve Bean pitched steady ball in the opener. In the nightcap Charlie Wagner won his 11th victory of the season and his sixth in a row by holding the Red Birds to four hits.

Toledo split with St. Paul, winning the first game 5 to 1 on Jess Sullivan's steady pitching and then

KATHARINE BRUSH RELATES THE FACTS

BANG! A TIRE BLEW OUT—ONE LITTLE "DEB" IS WISER AND SAFER

KATHARINE BRUSH—Celebrated Author of "Young Man of Manhattan" and Other Best Sellers

The Girl Behind The Wheel Might Have Been Your Daughter... Read Her Exciting Adventure

EVERY day you see girls like Helen Jean Talbot whizzing along in expensive cars. Helen Jean is a pert little debutante of fashionable Grosse Point, Michigan, who dances all the latest steps, wears the latest clothes, and drives her car just as well as any man.

On this particular summer day, Jean was clipping off the miles on the road from Lansing to Flint. Judging her distance carefully, Jean swung the car out in the fast lane of traffic to pass the car in front. And then things began to happen. Above the contented purr of her powerful motor burst the ear-splitting "BANG" of a blow-out. The big sedan zig-zagged. The driver of the car which she had passed was able to stop short. But all that separated Jean's car from a yawning ditch were a few scant inches of crumbling earth.

Of course, Jean loves a thrill—but as she said later, this was one too many for her. That's why, today, Jean's car is equipped with Goodrich Safety Silvertowns with Golden Ply blow-out protection.

Goodrich Aids Motorists

I'm a writer, not a mechanic, but I'm interested enough in my own safety to find out something about blow-out protection. And here's what I discovered:

Goodrich engineers saw the need for a safer tire as driving speeds increased. As a result, they invented the Life-Saver Golden Ply, a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific blowout-causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. Of course, no other tire in the world but the Goodrich Safety Silvertown has this life-saving invention. In view of the fact that I have always felt that it's much better to be safe than sorry, I would suggest that you equip your car with Golden Ply Silvertowns. Tomorrow isn't a bit too soon. And imagine! You pay no price premium for these super-quality tires.

ONLY GOODRICH SILVERTOWNS GIVE YOU GOLDEN PLY BLOW-OUT PROTECTION

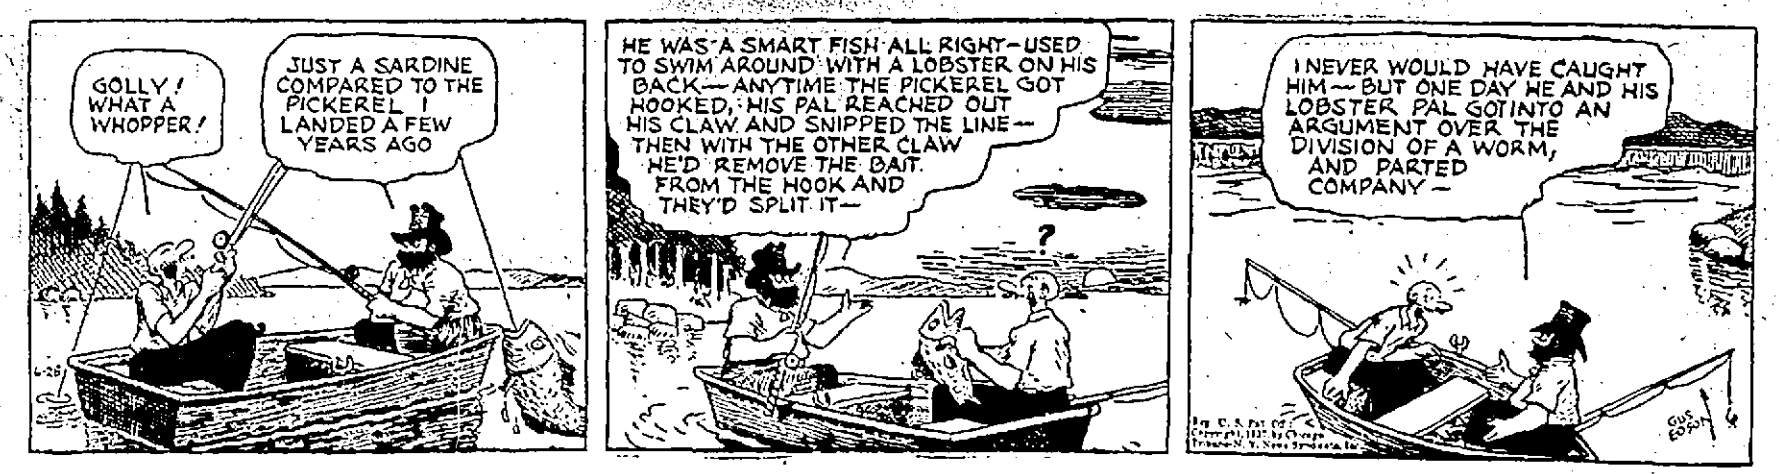
The Gumps — By Gus Edson



GOLLY! WHAT A WHOPPER!
JUST A SARDINE COMPARED TO THE PICKEREL I LANDED A FEW YEARS AGO
HE WAS A SMART FISH ALL RIGHT—USED TO SWIM AROUND WITH A LOBSTER ON HIS BACK—ANYTIME THE PICKEREL GOT HOOKED, HIS PAL REACHED OUT HIS CLAW AND SNIPPED THE LINE—THEN WITH THE OTHER CLAW HE'D REMOVE THE BAIT FROM THE HOOK AND THEY'D SPLIT IT—
I NEVER WOULD HAVE CAUGHT HIM—BUT ONE DAY HE AND HIS LOBSTER PAL GOT INTO AN ARGUMENT OVER THE DIVISION OF A WORM, AND PARTED COMPANY—
GUS EDSON
